

Electricity Thieves Flourishing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — In the wintry Northeast, where consumers pay prices for electricity that rank among the nation's highest, power companies are being squeezed by "juice" stealers.

Stealing electricity by tampering with meters was first noticed by a Florida utility in 1970, industry sources said. It has spread to all parts of the country and appears to be flourishing in New England.

Boston Edison and New England Electric System recently mailed warning pamphlets with their bills.

Three New England Electric subsidiaries said that in 1975 they found 405 suspected cases of theft among one million customers. They billed 177 customers for $61,457 worth of stolen electricity.

Through September of this year, the firm said it has found 1,521 suspicious cases, with 686 billed for a total of $130,588.

"Anybody who says his company doesn't have a problem hasn't looked for one," says Clarence F. Eckelmann of the New Orleans Public Service Co. and chairman of the security committee of the Edison Electric Institute, a trade group.

Eckelmann said utilities initially ignored the problem for fear of putting larcenous ideas in the heads of otherwise honest customers.

Most electricity thieves realize they'd be caught if their meter recorded no usage, so they disable it or install jumper wires only part of the time, or else they rig their meter so it runs slow.

An apartment house owner here told a friend he disables his meters for the middle two weeks between the meter reader's monthly visits.

John Walsh of Boston Edison said the relatively new crime apparently "cuts across all the socio-economic categories."

New England Electric said it has prosecuted 23 cases this year. Boston Edison said it prefers civil to criminal remedies. In Massachusetts, the maximum penalty for stealing electricity is a $100 fine and a year in jail.

Most cases of theft are uncovered by meter readers, but some are found when computers spot a suspiciously low bill. Sometimes neighbors tattle.

Bill Messer, of the New England Gas & Electric Association, said some people offer, for a price, to "cut your bills in half."

Two men have been charged with larceny for allegedly selling such services to 25 Hyannis, Mass., motels, liquor stores and restaurants, he said. A similar case was reported in Rhode Island.

Medicaid Fraud Terms Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being urged to consider severe jail terms for doctors, druggists and nursing home operators found guilty of taking part in the estimated billions of dollars in Medicaid fraud.

A New York state prosecutor told a Senate investigating committee Wednesday that his office uncovered evidence that nursing home operators were padding bills under the federal-state Medicaid program to pay for personal luxuries.

Charles Hynes, New York state special prosecutor for nursing homes, said his office found that nursing home operators treated themselves to mink coats, stereo equipment and paintings by such masters as Matisse and Renoir, claiming in bills to Medicaid that these were all legitimate business expenses.

It has been estimated that abuse and fraud in Medicaid, a federal-state program for the poor, and Medicare, which aids the elderly, cost taxpayers $3 billion to $4 billion a year.

Despite those figures, said Hynes and Samuel K. Skinner, U.S. attorney for Northern Illinois, virtually no health service offenders are ever sent to jail.

Skinner blamed the federal government in large part because the health insurance programs, which

Desert Town To Become Test Center

ZZYXZ, Calif. (AP) — This abandoned desert town, intended by its founder to be literally the last word in health spas, is getting a new lease on life as a research center.

Zzyzx (pronounced Zye-zix) was built in 1944 on federal property near Soda Dry Lake in the Mojave Desert about 200 miles east of Los Angeles by Curtis Howe Springer, who called himself the "last of the old-time medicine men."

With the help of workers from Los Angeles' Skid Row, Springer built a two-story hotel called "The Castle," groups of cottages, a community dining hall, a church, a printing plant, food production area, hot baths, shops and a swimming pool.

He picked the odd name to make it the last word in the English language. It still appears on road signs pointing there from the Las Vegas, Nev., to Los Angeles highway.

But Springer himself is gone — evicted in 1974 by federal marshals and sent to jail for several months after conviction for illegally using federal property and false advertising of health food products he claimed would cure everything from sore toes to cancer. Springer, now 80, lives in Las Vegas.

Now Zzyzx is being converted into an education and research center under an arrangement between a consortium of seven Southern California colleges and universities and the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

The site will be used for field trips and desert studies in biology as well as anthropology, archaeology, geology and geography.

"The beauty of Zzyzx is its central location in the Mojave Desert as an ideal support base for desert research," said Dr. Dalton H. Harrington, chairman of the biology department at Cal State, San Bernardino, and chairman of the California Desert Studies Consortium.

Dense Fog Hits Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dense fog was reported today in much of Florida and South Carolina and southern Alabama and Georgia.

Travellers were advised that driving would be hazardous until mid or late morning as visibilities dropped to zero in many areas. Locally dense fog also was developing in the San Joaquin and the San Fernando valleys of California.

In Montana the strong winds on the east slopes of the Rockies which had reached up to nearly 65 miles an hour subsided as a cold front moved eastward.

Winds gusting to 40 miles an hour accompanied the front in eastern Montana. Scattered showers followed the influx of cooler air in western Montana, northern Idaho and Oregon.

The movement of the vigorous cold front through the northern Rockies is part of a change in the nation's weather pattern. The change also brought a significant flow of warmer air over the north and central Plains for the first time this month.

There was light rain over south Texas, northern Florida and southern Georgia and light snow flurries over upper Michigan.

'Hard Choices' On Defense Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steadily rising costs may force Congress to make "hard choices" in allocating defense funds between manpower and new weapons, a new study warns.

Although the report prepared by the General Accounting Office was directed to Congress, its conclusions carry significant implications for President-elect Jimmy Carter.

Among other things, the GAO report says there are limits to manpower cost reductions that can be achieved by improving efficiency in the use of defense personnel. "Larger reductions can only be achieved by policy changes affecting strength and pay levels," it said.

During his successful campaign for the presidency, Carter pledged to cut the defense budget by $5 billion to $7 billion, mainly by eliminating waste, improving efficiency, and changing some personnel policies.

Carter also called for a withdrawal of the 42,000 U.S. ground troops from South Korea over a four-to five-year period, but he did not advocate reducing the size of the Army.

He has said nothing about cutting the pay of the Defense Department's 2.1 million military personnel and one million civilian employees.

In the report sent to Congress after the Nov. 2 election, the GAO cautioned that "changing national military policies or lowering pay levels would be controversial and should not be undertaken without careful study."

GAO analysts noted that personnel

Red China Explodes Atom Device

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are checking for any fallout from China's latest nuclear test explosion, the largest in China's 12-year history as a nuclear power.

U.S. officials expressed hope that the above-ground explosion on Wednesday would not cause hazardous radiation levels in the United States.

The blast was 20 times larger than the last Chinese test explosion in September. But the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) reported that with favorable weather conditions the fallout here from the blast may not exceed the low and harmless amounts of radiation caused by the September test.

However, the levels could be increased, for example, by heavy rains when the radioactive cloud from the explosion passes over the United States, the EPA said.

ERDA said the explosion had a force of four megatons, or 4 million tons of TNT. The September blast measured 200,000 tons.

Meanwhile, Japan's Kyodo News Service and the Japanese newspaper Asahi reported from Peking that Western military sources say that the latest test may signal completion by the Chinese of a strategic nuclear warhead for missiles.

The Chinese nuclear explosion in September resulted in a sprinkling of low-level radiation in the United States. The greatest fallout was in the East, where significant traces of radiation turned up in cows' milk, particularly in Pennsylvania. But the radioactivity never reached levels considered hazardous to humans, officials said.

The explosion was the fourth Chinese nuclear test this year. The Soviet Union and the United States have agreed not to test nuclear devices in the atmosphere.

The atomic bombs that the United States dropped on Japan during World War II were rated at 20 kilotons — equal in explosive force to 20,000 tons of TNT — or 200 times smaller than the latest Chinese test.

The largest American nuclear test publicly announced was a 15-megaton explosion, ERDA said.

Hynes said that "there still exists a climate in this country where the exploitation of old people is a respectable and risk-free profession."

He testified that the kickback scheme with suppliers worked this way: in order to get a nursing home contract, the supplier would pad its bill by charging for goods that were never delivered, and the nursing home operator would pass the phony bills along to the Medicaid program and end up with the extra cash.

Hynes, who obtained indictments earlier this week of 26 nursing home owners, employees and suppliers, told the Senate panel that up to half the 125 nursing homes in the New York City area may be involved in taking kickbacks from suppliers.

Skinner suggested appointment of state-federal task forces operating in cooperation with U.S. attorneys.

Jets In Near-Miss Over Ohio

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three crewmen on a Trans World Airlines flight to Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were shaken up when the pilot changed course abruptly to avoid another TWA jetliner over Ohio.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokeswoman said the near miss, within a mile, came shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday when a pilot misunderstood an air traffic controller's instructions.

But a TWA spokesman in Chicago said the FAA acted prematurely in blaming pilot error.

TWA Flight 516, a DC-9 with 73 passengers and four crew members aboard, arrived in Pittsburgh ten minutes late following the incident which occurred at 27,000 feet altitude, northeast of Columbus, Ohio.

The crew members, who were not identified, were taken to Sewickley Valley Hospital in suburban Pittsburgh and later released.

There were no injuries among the passengers aboard either of the planes.

The flight, enroute from Indianapolis, Ind., continued on to Philadelphia with an alternate crew. "Everybody's okay," said Capt. Dick Thomas of Kansas City, Mo., who declined further comment.

TWA Flight 373, a Boeing 727 with a crew of six and 51 passengers aboard, landed in Dayton, Ohio, a short time after the incident. The flight originated in Washington, D.C.

FAA spokeswoman Marjorie Kriz said the National Transportation Safety Board has been asked to investigate.

She said the pilot of Flight 373, who was not identified, apparently misunderstood an air traffic controller's descent instructions and came within a mile of a collision with Flight 516.

The plane was cleared to descend from 31,000 feet to 28,000 feet but the pilot apparently thought the clearance was for 23,000 feet, she said.

Ms. Kriz said both pilots were aware that another jetliner was in the area and Thomas took evasive action when Flight 373 appeared in his path.

"The FAA was a little premature in indicating a misunderstanding of altitude clearance," said Chicago TWA spokesman Lawrence Hilliard in a telephone interview.

He said the federal agency should have delayed comment until an investigation recreated the incident and pinpointed blame.

Rhodesian Talks Stalled

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The British chairman of talks on the future of Rhodesia made a new bid today for compromise with black nationalists who refuse to attend conference sessions until he agrees to set a one-year transition period to black rule.

Ivor Richard outlined his compromise proposal in a 45-minute meeting with Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, who have formed a "Patriotic Front" for the Geneva talks. Details of the plan were not known.

Richard described the plan to reporters only as "some thoughts designed to facilitate movement at the conference."

Nkomo and Mugabe said they would study the plan and withheld further comment. A Patriotic Front spokesman said, "Our position still stands. Meanwhile, we are studying the chairman's proposal."

The Patriotic Front leaders accused Richard Tuesday of trying to divide the four black delegations and said they would not participate in formal conference sessions until he agreed to set Dec. 1, 1977 as the date for majority rule in Rhodesia.

Richard has proposed a 15-month transition period, with black rule within a year if legal details can be resolved. The white minority regime has insisted on a two-year changeover.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State John Reinhardt arrived in Geneva Wednesday night to head an American observer team at the talks. Reinhardt indicated he would act as go-between for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

See Slow Carter Government Moves

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's promised reorganization of the federal government will be carried out in a "very careful, deliberate process" over the next two to three years, a key Carter staff member says.

Carter discussed that proposed reorganization, the economy, and his dealing with the House and Senate in a three-hour meeting with Democratic congressional leaders Wednesday at Sen. Herman Talmadge's home at Lovejoy, Ga., about 40 miles south of Atlanta. He later received expressions of support from some of the legislators present.

Carter, who was repeatedly referred to as "Mr. President" at the meeting, said later he had asked the legislators to "direct me to make the executive branch more efficient."

Another topic was Carter's expressed desire to forge a bipartisan foreign policy. A Carter aide later said Carter will seek a meeting with Republican leaders to ask advice and "give them a feeling of participation without their feeling that they were being co-opted."

Carter told the Democratic legislators he wants Congress to reenact the Hoover Reorganization Act which, before it expired last year, gave the president the authority to reorganize the federal government subject only to congressional veto.

The Carter aide described the meeting with nine senators and seven House members during a news briefing under the ground rules that he not be identified by name.

Carter entered the meeting with a list of discussion topics written on a folded piece of paper. At the top of the list was government reorganization, but the aide said, "Clearly the topic that ran in and out of almost all the discussion was the economy."

Government reorganization was a topic Carter brought up frequently during his campaign, recounting the consolidation of Georgia government agencies he supervised as the state's governor and promising he would reorganize the federal bureaucracy if elected president.

His aide said specific legislative proposals were not brought up.

Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., expected to be the next House speaker, said Carter "will have 100 per cent cooperation from me."

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., retiring as the Senate Democratic leader, said, "If the meeting this afternoon is any indication of what lies ahead for this country...the omens are all good."

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today after Wednesday's moderate advance as Wall Street's hopes for a postponement of next month's much-expected 1 price hike faded.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point and a half in the early going, but as many issues were down as were up on the New York Stock Exchange.

The announcement this morning by Kuwait's Minister of State that the meeting of oil exporting countries, will take place as scheduled next month dashed hopes for a delay in the oil price hike expected to result from that meeting.

President-elect Jimmy Carter and many economists have said that a big increase in the price of imported crude oil could harm chances for a continuation of the economic recovery.

Today, the government revised downward its third quarter Gross National Product figures to show a 3.8 per cent growth in that quarter instead of the previously stated 4 per cent rise.

In early trading, Occidental Petroleum gained 1/4 to 18 1/2; Texaco was unchanged at 25 1/4, and General Motors rose 1/4 to 69 1/2.

On Wednesday, the Dow average gained 2.74 to 938.06 and advancing issues more than doubled declines among NYSE listed issues.

The NYSE composite index rose .33 to 53.85.

Trading was a moderately active 19.90 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .06 to 98.29.

Circleville Juniors Present 'The Rainmaker'

"The Rainmaker," a delightful play of romance and rain, will be presented tonight and Friday by Circleville High School's Junior Class.

The play opens with Janet Spring, portraying Lizzie Curry, as an old maid, or so her family thinks. After an encounter with the Rainmaker Bill Starbuck, played by Tom Gans, Lizzie "lets her hair down," and becomes a beautiful young lady.

Romance does not tie up the whole show, though, as the main topic of the times was a terrible drought that was ruining the family business. Starbuck has a solution for this problem also. He makes a deal with Lizzie's father and brothers that he can make the rain appear for a fee.

Final Drive Set By UAW In GM Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, after narrowly ratifying a contract with Chrysler, launch a final bargaining drive at General Motors today in an attempt to avert a mid-night EST walkout by 390,000 hourly GM workers in 21 states.

Charging that the negotiating pace at GM had slowed, the UAW warned the No. 1 auto maker Wednesday to "step up" its talks if it hopes to avoid becoming the second major auto company struck this year.

"I feel nervous," one union source said after a full day and night of talks. "Things aren't coming together as fast as they should."

UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone, the top UAW bargainer at GM, that "a considerable number of important issues" remain unresolved.

However, union officials said time remained to fashion a three-year accord based on the industry pattern set at Ford Motor Co., following a 28-day strike, and accepted by Chrysler.

Ratification of a pact for 109,000 hourly Chrysler workers came Wednesday, as skilled tradesmen — who held veto power over the settlement forged Nov. 5 — voted their approval by a slim 622 votes.

Chief provisions of the contract include seven additional paid days off by 1979, annual wage hikes of about 3 per cent a year; continued cost-of-living protection; expanded health care and layoff benefits; cash bonuses of up to $600 for retirees; and a special wage hike of at least 25 cents an hour for tradesmen.

At GM, only 32 of 143 local bargaining units had settled on new working agreements, a company spokesman there said.

GTE Plans Cable Addition

Construction is under way on a major cable addition for growth and service improvement in the Circleville exchange, General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

William D. Anderson, customer service manager, said the $43,800 addition will beef up facilities in the southern and eastern portions of the exchange.

Portions of the new cable will be installed within the urban area of Circleville. This will provide "feeder" lines to the rural sections of the cable.

"Projects of this type are the results of needs indicated by our studies and forecasts," the manager said. "This allows us to have facilities available for customers when needed."

The Circleville exchange serves 7,664 telephones in a 187.4-square-mile area of Pickaway and Fairfield Counties.

Black Marines Face Charges In Attack

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — A commando-style attack by up to 10 black Marines using screwdrivers and other weapons against seven white Marines at Camp Pendleton has prompted an investigation that could lead to courts-martial, a base official says.

A military magistrate was to decide, possibly today, whether to try four black Marines who were taken into custody after the clubbing and stabbing assault in a new motel-style barracks Saturday night, a base spokesman said.

All but one of the white Marines were injured in the incident, and three of them remain hospitalized in satisfactory condition at the base hospital.

Spokesman Lt. Charles Owen refused comment on anonymous telephone calls to local newspapers saying the targets of the attack were white power advocates. "The investigation has not been completed," he said.

But Owen confirmed that in addition to the black Marines already identified, three to five more were being sought for questioning.

Owen said a military magistrate now taking testimony would determine whether evidence shows there was a crime, whether there is reason to order courts-martial for the four men in custody, and whether they should be released or held in the brig pending trial.

The military courts system does not provide for bail.

The incident apparently was the most serious racial outbreak at the base since 1970, when more than 30 black Marines stormed through a barracks occupied by men getting ready to ship out for Vietnam. It took several hours to restore order.

In April of the same year, military

Chilean Regime Frees Prisoners

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's military regime said it would release 150 political prisoners today, leaving behind bars, according to its announcements, less than 1,000 of the more than 40,000 persons arrested for suspected political activity since the armed forces seized power in 1973.

The government, under increasing pressure because of accusations of torture and violation of human rights, freed 133 persons Wednesday who had been held without being charged.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today after Wednesday's moderate advance as Wall Street's hopes for a postponement of next month's much-expected 1 price hike faded.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point and a half in the early going, but as many issues were down as were up on the New York Stock Exchange.

The announcement this morning by Kuwait's Minister of State that the meeting of oil exporting countries, will take place as scheduled next month dashed hopes for a delay in the oil price hike expected to result from that meeting.

President-elect Jimmy Carter and many economists have said that a big increase in the price of imported crude oil could harm chances for a continuation of the economic recovery.

Today, the government revised downward its third quarter Gross National Product figures to show a 3.8 percent growth in that quarter instead of the previously stated 4 percent rise.

In early trading, Occidental Petroleum gained 1/4 to 18 1/2; Texaco was unchanged at 25 1/4, and General Motors rose 1/4 to 69 1/4.

On Wednesday, the Dow average gained 2.74 to 938.06 and advancing issues more than doubled declines among NYSE listed issues.

The NYSE composite index rose .33 to 53.85.

Trading was a moderately active 19.9 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .06 to 98.29.

GTE Plans Cable Addition

Construction is under way on a major cable addition for growth and service improvement in the Circleville exchange, General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

William D. Anderson, customer service manager, said the $43,800 addition will beef up facilities in the southern and eastern portions of the exchange.

Portions of the new cable will be installed within the urban area of Circleville. This will provide "feeder" lines to the rural sections of the cable.

"Projects of this type are the results of needs indicated by our studies and forecasts," the manager said. "This allows us to have facilities available for customers when needed."

The Circleville exchange serves 7,664 telephones in a 187.4-square-mile area of Pickaway and Fairfield Counties.

Black Marines Face Charges In Attack

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — A commando-style attack by up to 10 black Marines using screwdrivers and other weapons against seven white Marines at Camp Pendleton has prompted an investigation that could lead to courts-martial, a base official says.

A military magistrate was to decide, possibly today, whether to try four black Marines who were taken into custody after the clubbing and stabbing assault in a new motel-style barracks Saturday night, a base official says.

All but one of the white Marines were injured in the incident, and three of them remain hospitalized in satisfactory condition at the base hospital.

Spokesman Lt. Charles Owen refused comment on anonymous telephone calls to local newspapers saying the targets of the attack were white power advocates. "The investigation has not been completed," he said.

But Owen confirmed that in addition to the black Marines already identified, three to five more were being sought for questioning.

Owen said a military magistrate now taking testimony would determine whether evidence shows there was a crime, whether there is reason to order courts-martial for the four men in custody, and whether they should be released or held in the brig pending trial.

The military courts system does not provide for bail.

The incident apparently was the most serious racial outbreak at the base since 1970, when more than 30 black Marines stormed through a barracks occupied by men getting ready to ship out for Vietnam. It took several hours to restore order.

In April of the same year, military

Chilean Regime Frees Prisoners

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's military regime said it would release 150 political prisoners today, leaving behind bars, according to its announcements, less than 1,000 of the more than 40,000 persons arrested for suspected political activity since the armed forces seized power in 1973.

The government, under increasing pressure because of accusations of torture and violation of human rights, freed 133 persons Wednesday who had been held without being charged.

A Page Of Opinion

New Energy Age

Everyone interested in energy — a category including many — seems to have his favorite long-term solution. For some it is the greater recovery of coal and other fossil fuels, for others it is conservation of energy demands.

Solar energy commands a growing following. Nuclear energy, geothermal energy, harnessing the oceans' temperature changes, using the tides and wind — the list is growing and idle speculation has turned to concrete exploration and experimentation.

Hydrogen energy is another form receiving increasing attention, for several good reasons. It is abundant. Hydrogen is a major component of water and water covers 70 per cent of the earth.

Hydrogen can be extracted from water through an electrical process. Hydrogen gas can be burned to provide heat or energy more efficiently than coal or oil and it leaves no pollutant residue. Experiments in Oklahoma and Florida have demonstrated hydrogen will operate a diesel engine with 50-100 per cent higher efficiency than diesel fuel.

No, the hydrogen age has not arrived. There are problems with it, as there are with almost all energy forms. But it is no longer only a scientist's dream.

A new energy age is dawning, one far more varied, competitive and abundant than any of the past. It will require more time to bring its many parts to fruition, but when they begin to mesh energy to live, create and produce no longer should be a problem.

Opening Night Nightmare

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Lynn Redgrave, the award-winning actress and daughter of famed British actor Sir Michael Redgrave, is a real dreamer.

"I take after my father, who has had a recurring dream before opening nights for 40 years," she says brightly. "Father dreams he's in the dressing room making up, and suddenly his whole face slides off onto his chest. He has no face at all, just this blank. And he's got to get his face up off his chest before curtain, and he can't."

Lynn smiles. "My dream is far more common among actors. Shows a certain lack of imagination, actually. I'm onstage, doing terribly well through the first two acts of the play, and then somebody tells me there is also a third act — and I've never heard of it."

Oh well, to each his own neurosis. "I'm ever so much better than I used to be. I still have nerves, still the occasional bad dream, but experience has taught me to cope."

In fact, Lynn may not have any nightmares at all next Sunday, before the Baltimore opening of her new Broadway-bound review, "Hellzapoppin'," because she has "this feeling in my bones that it's really time for people to go to the theater and have a funny and stupid time. And when you're appearing with a crazy genius like Jerry Lewis, you have a reassuring feeling that all is tremendously well. Of course, whether the audience likes you — or whether they see you as a bomb — that's all in the lap of the gods. But this show has such a happy feeling, we all laugh so much while we're working, that I have great hopes I shall have no bad dreams, before the opening or after."

(An updated revival of a wacky 1930s Olsen and Johnson review — the new version written by Abe Burrows — "Hellzapoppin'," will play Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Boston before opening in New York Feb. 13.)

Miss Redgrave, who became an overnight theatrical hotshot at the age of 23, when she tied Liz Taylor as Best Actress of 1966 (N.Y. Film Critics Award) for her smashing dumbness in "Gregory Girl," is slim and gorgeous. She is also 5-feet-10, which is a whole lot of gorge. Speaking of which, Lynn is always on a diet. She used to make marvelous dishes she learned in gourmet cooking school. "There was a marvelous lamb dish with raisins, tomatoes and apples-smashing, really — and some pie-ish things that can be done up in a quarter-hour flat if you're having a lot of people in and want to appear with dazzling brilliance." But she gave all that up to be slim and gorgeous. "Even bread-baking. When things get too nervous before a show, I used to bake bread. It's the most therapeutic, creative thing I know how to do, because it requires all your attention and smells like home and peace."

"But I gave it all up, after I was married and had two children. We're all watching our weight, and anyway the children — Benji, 8, and Kelly, 6 — don't like good, nourishing things. They like bland, white, frightful, soft bread in cellophane wrappers that say it's 'enriched' so that youngsters can say, 'Look, Mum, it's okay.'"

Almost a decade ago, Lynn Redgrave told me (for a magazine article I was composing) that "Marriage today is more difficult than it used to be — and a whole lot less necessary. The most important thing about the nonnecessity of marriage has to do with its original concept. It was invented originally for people who would be living together maybe 25 or 30 years. Now that was reasonable. But today, swearing you'll live together 'till death do us part' carries with it the proposition of living with someone till you're 90 or 100 years old — and one has to be awfully keen about someone to take all that much!"

With that, she announced, "Of course I want to be married some day and have children, but I think that I will live with a man for a very long time before I even THINK of marriage. I think people, particularly in America, would rather be married five times than have five affairs. Leaving children behind, too, which is too bad. To me this seems more immoral than living with men. And I don't intend to do it."

Before the magazine article appeared, I read in the newspapers that Lynn Redgrave had married actor John Clark.

"Sorry about that," she chuckled this week. She knew, at the time of the interview, that she would marry John — but she wanted to keep it to herself. "Actors and actresses, you know are always mixed up and self-analytical, and they need to keep some things to themselves. Just consider. When ordinary pleasant people are children, they're encouraged to cover up their emotions, hold back tears, and all that. 'Well, when you're an actor you're encouraged to do just the opposite — to cry, not to hide anything. Unfortunately, you're bound to be overly concerned with yourself. Frightful, but that's how it is.'"

As the "baby" in Sir Michael Redgrave's five-member first family of the English theatre, Lynn used to watch her parents, her sister Vanessa, and brother Corin, act out great dramas at home. She used to ask, "Can I just be the dog or something?" — because being a dog, you could be in on it but not have any real responsibilities."

She's grown up now, has accepted all the responsibilities. Even a husband and children. "It's rather a nice thrill," she says.

Today is Thursday, Nov. 18, the 323rd day of 1976. There are 43 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1903, the United States and Panama signed a treaty granting U.S. rights to build the Panama Canal.

On this date:

In 1626, St. Peter's Basilica in Rome was consecrated by Pope Urban the Eighth.

In 1883, the United States adopted standard time.

In 1935, economic sanctions were imposed against Italy after the Italian invasion of Ethiopia.

In 1936, the Fascist governments of Germany and Italy recognized the Franco regime in Spain.

In 1970, West Germany and Communist Poland agreed to restore relations, ending 31 years of enmity.

Ten years ago: U.S. Roman Catholics did away with the church rule against eating meat on Fridays.

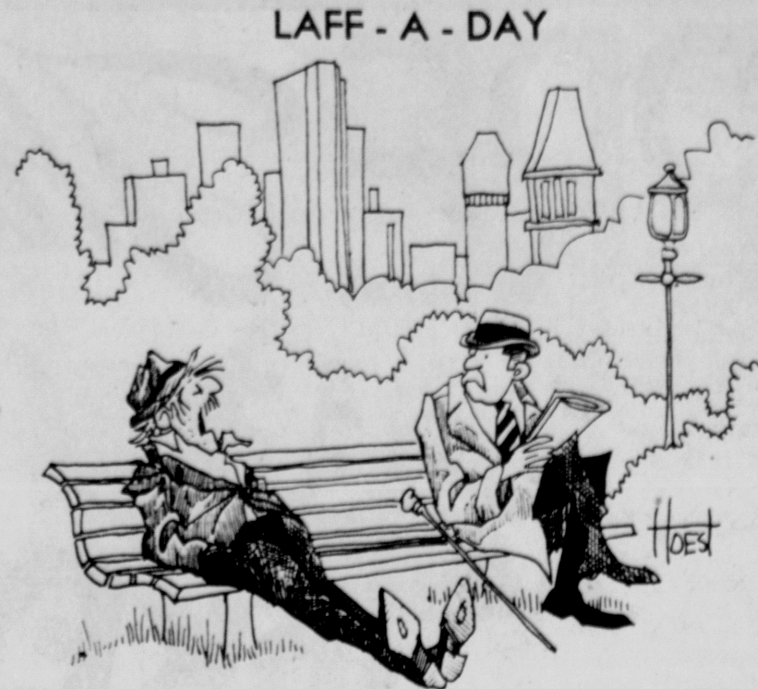

Five years ago: Communist China tested its 12th nuclear bomb in seven years.

One year ago: The U.S. Senate approved the nomination of Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense.

Today's birthdays: Orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy is 77. Pollster George Gallup is 75.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, British General William Howe honored the Hessians who had played a major role in the capture of Fort Washington Manhattan from the Americans and renamed the post on northern Manhattan Fort Mifflin.

"... And just when I was pulling myself up, my bootstrap broke."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

When is an exploratory operation performed? It seems that this is such a radical thing to do in order to find out the cause of an illness. My wife needs one, but she's stalling as long as she can.

Mr. C. H. L., III.

Dear Mr. L.: "Stalling" has never been known to be a method of diagnosis. Stalling can only convert simple problems into complicated ones. Coming face-to-face and confronting a problem is the only way to attack it and solve it.

Despite the many new tests that are available it is sometimes impossible to establish a definite diagnosis within the abdomen. Radio-active opaque dyes can outline the stomach, the kidneys, the gall bladder, the pelvis and yet some conditions may elude the doctor.

When this occurs, the surgeon may suggest an exploratory operation, or "laparotomy," to confirm or rule out a suspected diagnosis.

At first, this does seem to be a radical or extreme way to approach such a problem. Yet, with the safety of today's anesthesia and the rapidity with which such an exploratory operation can be performed, it may even be considered "conservative," rather than "radical."

My husband has a cancer of the intestines. Have you ever heard of the bloodless operation that is done in the Philippines for this condition? We are desperate.

Mrs. J. N., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. N.:

Although I can't answer letters directly, I did in your case because of your urgent need. I want my readers to understand that hundreds of people are flocking to the Philippines for this "psychic surgery." Despite the fact that warnings have been issued that this is sheer quackery and that it exploits the gullible who base their hopes on unscientific nonsense, desperation still drives patients to the Philippines.

The most distressing aspect of this enterprise is not the cost, but the fact that valuable time is wasted — time which might otherwise be used in an attempt to limit or even cure a cancer.

Personal Income Rise Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases in the pay and benefits for federal employees helped push up the growth of personal income in the United States at a faster pace in October, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said personal income grew at an annual rate of 10.2 billion, or 9.2 per cent, to $1,401.9 billion. That contrasted to an annual rate of $6.2 billion, or 5.5 per cent in September.

On a per capita basis, the department said personal income for October climbed to an annual rate of $6,502, up 7.8 per cent from the same month last year.

The growth means Americans will have more money to spend in the near future, somewhat counterbalancing some of the government's recent negative economic statistics.

Those statistics showed that retail sales have remained virtually stable for four months, unemployment increased by one-tenth of a per cent in October, and industrial production marked its second consecutive month of decline.

October's consumer price index, or inflation rate, hasn't been reported yet. But consumer prices rose four-tenths of a per cent in September.

Personal income consists of all wages, salaries, Social Security payments, dividends and other income received by individuals after deduction of Social Security taxes.

It does not take into account other tax payments or inflation.

A photo of the Modern Woodmen of America's local band, very popular here around the turn of the century, showed the portraits of the only four surviving members—Henry L. Mader, Edgar Friedman, Iley Greeno and Carl Ebert. The group was organized as the Circleville Band, but later was accepted as honorary members of the MWA Lodge and became the official unit of the organization.

The Circleville Tigers closed out their near-perfect 1966 football season by defeating the Reynoldsburg Raiders, 22-14, on foreign soil. The lone blemish on the record of the Red and Black was an 18-0 loss to Pleasant View, one of the tri-champions of the Metropolitan League.

CHS's Junior Class presented the comedy "The Solid Gold Cadillac" in the new Circleville High School auditorium. It was the first use of the new stage area for a public presentation.

They'll Do It Every Time

Moynihan To Be Maverick In U.S. Senate

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

His Drinking Buddy Is Boozing Bow-Wow

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of an alcoholic dog? I think I have one. Every weekend my husband puts away eight six-packs of beer with the help of Rudy, our 10-year-old cocker spaniel. I am not putting you on, Abby. It all started when Don (my husband) gave Rudy a taste of his beer. Rudy loved it, so Don gave him some more, and pretty soon it got to be a regular thing. Now after a few beers, Rudy chases his tail, staggers around and finally falls down and goes to sleep.

Can all this beer hurt the dog? Don says it can't. I say it can. Rudy can hardly wait until Friday, and when he sees Don carry those six-packs out of the car, he gets so excited he nearly goes crazy.

I would ask our vet but I'm ashamed.

DON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: My vet consultant says it is indeed possible for a dog to become addicted to beer. And I think anyone who would addict a dog is a dirty dog himself!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my boyfriend's taste in clothes for me. When he goes shopping with me, or buys a gift of clothing for me, he always picks something that's backless or so low in front that I can't wear a bra. He also likes dresses that have long slits up the sides and hip-hugger pants that fit skin tight and show the belly button. He gave me a seethrough blouse last Christmas and I haven't had the nerve to wear it yet.

I hate to hurt his feelings, but I feel uncomfortable wearing clothes that show so much. Am I too modest? Or do all guys like for their girls to dress this way?

Kissinger Sees Detente

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger suggests that the Soviet Union and China may settle some of the bitter disputes dividing them but not to the point that will threaten the West.

Kissinger said Tuesday that the Russians and Chinese "have quarreled for their own reasons and they're going to make rapprochement for their own reasons."

His assessment came at a conference of parliamentarians from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations in Williamsburg, Va., when he was asked if the Communists would resolve their differences at the expense of the Atlantic Alliance.

Kissinger's appearance at the NATO conference was his first public speech since Democrat Jimmy Carter defeated President Ford two weeks ago. Many of the questions dealt with the secretary's relations with the president-elect.

Kissinger pledged to cooperate with the president-elect.

The mainlines of American foreign policy are clear and bipartisan, Kissinger said, and he will support their continuation under the Democratic president. The secretary said he will travel to Plains, Ga., on Saturday to meet with Carter "to answer fully his questions and to cooperate to the fullest extent to bring about a smooth transition."

DEAR MODEST: All guys are not eager for their girlfriends to put on a skin exhibition. It's your body, and if you're uncomfortable in such get-ups, don't wear them for him or anybody else.

DEAR ABBY: No problem-I just thought you might enjoy a note our young daughter slipped under our bedroom door. It reads:

DEAR ABBY: I have this real problem that only you can help me with. See, it's my parents. After 28 years of marriage, they still love each other! (Abnormal.) They still hold hands in public! (Dis-gusting.) They keep on telling me that they love me! (Humiliating.)

Do you think they should be committed for this? Say, to the Smithsonian Institution?

Signed, POOR KID FROM UNDERPRIVILEGED MINORITY
DEAR POOR KID: Are you bragging or complaining? I hope you're bragging because your parents are something to brag about.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's new U.S. senator grew up a poor Irish boy in the real-life setting for the musical "West Side Story."

But Daniel Patrick Moynihan, won his Senate seat on Manhattan's East Side, where his dramatic performances at the United Nations drew rave notices and gave Democrat Moynihan a head start with the state's important Jewish voters.

The sometimes-professor, sometimes-bureaucrat made two big speeches on behalf of Israel during his time as U.S. permanent representative to the United Nations, and his reputation was made.

Moynihan's dramatic flair is considerable. He can hunch his narrow shoulders up, spread out his arms like wings, toss his long, gray hair — he even seems to stretch his 6-foot-4 frame into a strung bow.

His eyebrows are capable of arched heights beyond the reach of most mortals, and his reddened face bobs and twists into numberless masks atop the thickened neck.

For all that skill, Moynihan's campaign speeches often left audiences flat, and it is too early to class him with the Senate's grand old speakers, with their melodrama and passion. Moynihan's thrusts against his recent foe, incumbent Republican-Conservative Sen. James L. Buckley, were more tweaks than damnations. "Professorial" is a word many observers enjoy pinning on Moynihan. Buckley called him "Professor Moynihan" throughout the campaign, and while Moynihan put on great displays of anger, he seemed to relish the label.

In fact Moynihan's whole campaign image was a marriage of Irish street imp and Ivy League intellectual.

"Say something in Irish and I'll introduce you," one speaker told him from the stage during the campaign.

"I'll have a beer," Moynihan responded.

Moynihan, who favors plaid Irish walking hats, will have some colorful competition in the Senate from a fellow academic who's fond of tam-o'-shanters. It will come from Sen. S. I. Hayakawa, a semantics professor who, like Moynihan, defeated an incumbent to become a California senator. Hayakawa, who gained his fame as a college president for a confrontation with student demonstrators in the 60s, is a Republican.

At 49, Moynihan has behind him a career of bouncing back and forth between government and campus, between Republican and Democratic powerholders. Hayakawa, who says he and Moynihan are liberal intellectuals who have seen the light, only recently switched from the Democratic to the Republican party.

Moynihan started out working for New York's Democratic governor of the 1950's, W. Averell Harriman. When Harriman lost his bid for re-election in 1958, he gave his official papers to Syracuse University and Moynihan went there to teach.

Moynihan got involved early in John F. Kennedy's campaign and went to Washington when Kennedy won the 1960 election.

There, in the forefront of the New Frontier, and later President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society, Moynihan was a highly ranked architect of expanding social programs.

Later, after his first stint at Harvard, he grew more doubtful about the federal government's ability to bring about creative change, and he signed on as President Richard M. Nixon's domestic affairs adviser.

In that post Moynihan counseled that the black "problem" could benefit from a period of "benign neglect." That advice, in addition to some of his academic work, has rendered him eternally suspect to many black leaders.

During the same time Moynihan promoted a welfare reform plan, based primarily on the notion that the current system works to divide families and that a system which offered more cash and fewer programs for broken families would probably help people more. It would cost more in the short run but less in the long run, he argued.

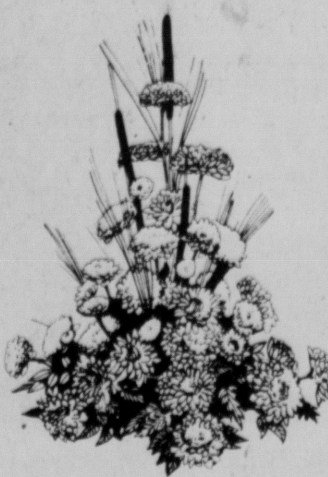

Congress refused to go along, but Moynihan did push to get the outline of his plan into the Democratic party platform this year.

On foreign policy matters, Moynihan pronounces himself deeply suspicious of the Russians and other Communists, and sounds like a 1950s Cold Warrior at times. He supported Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington during the presidential primaries.

Moynihan says he is helping to lead a Democratic party return to moderation after what he views as the excesses of George McGovern and radical chic.

In New York State, Moynihan has tremendous name recognition, almost celebrity appeal, but no firm political base of his own. He won both the primary campaign and the general election as the designated candidate of the state's most powerful county chairman, Joseph Crangle of Buffalo.

Gunner Musselman Guest Speaker For Martha Circle

Martha Circle of Circleville Community United Methodist Church met Monday evening in the church parlor.

Guest speaker for the evening was Gunner Musselman who presented the concluding program for a series relating to Methodist heritage. Mr. Musselman began the lecture with the Christmas Conference held in 1784 in Baltimore, Md., where John Wesley's 24-general rules were accepted and became the foundation for church law. The speaker stated that the Discipline of the United Methodist Church outlines the structure of the church, its various boards, commissions and committees, and defines how each agency within the church shall function. Mr. Musselman stated that the Discipline, a bulky book of rules and regulations, merely helps laymen to avoid pitfalls into which Methodists before have stumbled.

Mrs. William Cook presented the devotions using Thanksgiving as the central theme.

During the business meeting, members were reminded of the annual Christmas Carry-in dinner to be held Dec. 1, at 6:30 p.m. in the church.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Twyla Leist and Mrs. Alys Hines.

They are not to be wrapped but ribbon and paper can accompany the gifts as they will be sorted according to sizes, colors, and types of items. Boxes for the gifts would be greatly appreciated too so on the day volunteers assemble for the actual wrapping and tagging, they can be made as attractive as possible.

Mrs. Susan Furniss Presents Program For Garden Club

Mrs. Susan Furniss presented a program entitled "Sheltering And Feeding Birds" at the recent meeting of the Derby Garden Club. Mrs. Furniss said "Birds can be of great value to the home owner whether he lives in the city or the country. But, to fully enjoy their benefits, a little time must be taken to care for these colorful creatures. A bird bath, feeders, appropriate houses and some work to plant shrubs and trees attractive to birds will assure that there will be plenty of birds to enjoy. Songbird habitat on the farm can be improved with a little extra effort. The work involved is almost in keeping with sound agricultural practices."

Mrs. Shirley McPherson reported on the November third meeting of the Pickaway County Council of Garden Clubs.

For a civic project Derby Garden Club will make Thanksgiving fruit baskets for Derby senior residents. Mrs. Geraldine McPherson announced a work meeting Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. to prepare and distribute the baskets.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — S. I. Hayakawa, California's colorful 70-year-old senator-elect, is a recent Republican convert who says he views campaigning as a combination of evangelism and standup comedy.

His own campaign contained elements of each. Picture the scene: The Japanese-American semantist is on his campaign train playing "Bye Bye Blackbird" on a harmonica. Dressed in a white suit and white shoes, light blue shirt and polka-dot tie, Hayakawa embarks from the train in San Diego and hears the crowd chanting: "We want Sam!"

Hayakawa pauses, then tells his admirers: "I love that sound ... we want Sam. Sam the samurai, yellow hope of the Republican party."

Swinehart Named To Equitable Federal Board

R. Dane Swinehart, general manager of South Central Power Company has been named a director of Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Assn., President Dwight Heister announced today.

Heister said, "Mr. Swinehart is a valuable addition to our board. His experience, knowledge and expertise as well as concern for excellent customer service have been well proven by his successful record as executive vice president and general manager of South Central Power Company."

A 20-year veteran at South Central, Swinehart has been manager of that firm since January 1, 1974. South Central Power Company, the fifth largest Rural Electric Cooperative in the U.S., has nearly 44,000 consumers in 19 Ohio counties. The company had over $20,000,000 in gross revenues in 1975, and now lists over $46,000,000 in assets.

In addition to his managerial duties, Swinehart is a director of Buckeye Power Company, Inc., president of the board of Rural Electric Supply Company, president of Ohio Managers Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives, and a member of the operating committee which operates the Cardinal Power Plant on the Ohio River. He is also an active member of the Lancaster Area Chamber of Commerce and a member of Columbus Chapter of Newcomen Society.

Swinehart was born in Perry County. He is a graduate of Lancaster High School, and has received his bachelor's degree from Ohio University, and a masters degree from Xavier University.

Swinehart, his wife Karen and three children, Stephanie, Steve and Kent are residents of Lancaster.

Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Association, headquartered in Lancaster, is a thrift and home loan financial institution with five offices serving three counties (Fairfield, Perry, Pickaway) and a sixth office scheduled to open in December, 1976 at Ashville, Ohio. Currently, assets of the Association are in excess of $78,000,000.

Soap Box Derby Date Announced

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The directors of the All-American Soap Box Derby have set Aug. 20 as the date for next year's 40th running of the gravity classic.

Derby officials said they expect 200 contestants, up from about 160 this year.

The race is divided into two divisions: a junior division for youngsters ages 10 through 12, and a senior division for 12 to 15 year olds.

Booster Club Plans Sports Banquet

Logan Elm School Booster Club will hold its Fall Sports Banquet 6 p.m. Monday at McDowell Exchange School.

Table service is to be brought for each one attending including players and cheerleaders, along with covered dishes for the dinner.

As with most of his quips, the short, pockish Republican was at least semiserious. He has said he wants to move the GOP forward in the 20th century, including more recruiting minorities to its ranks.

Hayakawa's campaign symbol was a tam-o'-shanter — the kind of hat he wore when television cameras filmed him ripping wires out of a student sound truck in 1968 at San Francisco State College.

He was then president of the school, and Hayakawa says the episode helped him become a folk hero of sorts — "in the same way Patrick Moynihan became a folk hero when he was cursing them out at the United Nations." Moynihan is a newly elected U.S. senator from New York.

After seeing universities "go down the drain" in the student radical days in the 1960s, Hayakawa said: "I stood up and I moved people very profoundly. I stood up to all the abuse the universities were taking."

During his campaign to unseat incumbent Democrat John Tunney, Dr. Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa lived up to his selfbilling as an "unpredictable" even though he spent a lot of time talking about traditional GOP issues such as the need for a streamlined bureaucracy and increased aid to the small-business man.

It wasn't just that Hayakawa was a nonpolitician. Californians elected song-and-danceman George Murphy senator in 1964 and former actor Ronald Reagan governor in 1966.

What made Hayakawa different was what else he talked about and how he behaved on the campaign trail.

He seemed to enjoy being an odd mixture, one moment brushing off a question on the Panama Canal with the line, "I think we ought to keep it, we stole it fair and square," and the next minute making an erudite comment on political theory.

One point he discussed in a serious way was his change of political parties. How could a man who called himself a liberal Democrat until three years ago now have conservative GOP backing?

"What happened to me happened to a considerable number of liberal intellectuals, many of them former Socialists, Irving Kristol, Sidney Hook, Daniel Bell, Daniel Moynihan, Seymour Lipset," he said.

"They stood for the traditional concept of academic freedom, for all parties, not just the left. They were united on the idea that universities were places for ideas, not just breaking windows."

Some of Hayakawa's campaign proposals were unique, to say the least.

At one point, he called on females to organize against Playboy and Penthouse because "women have a right to the privacy of their private parts."

He also said one way to urge Soviet-dominated countries to revolt was to send American jazz records to Eastern Europe to make people "really dissatisfied with their lot under a Communist tyranny."

And he observed that World War II Japanese-American internment camps weren't all bad — a remark which caused considerable controversy.

In response to reports that he napped during faculty meetings at San Francisco State, Hayakawa said he hoped senators were more interesting than some of his former faculty colleagues.

Nonetheless, Hayakawa, who switched from Democrat to Republican in 1973, defeated 42-year-old Tunney by nearly 227,000 votes.

Few voters knew much about Hayakawa other than his San Francisco State record. Born in Vancouver, B.C., he received his bachelor's degree from the University of Manitoba in 1927, his master's from McGill in 1928 and his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin in 1929.

In 1937, Hayakawa married Margedant Peters and had three children by her — one of them a retarded son who still lives with the couple in the San Francisco suburb of Mill Valley.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — S. I. Hayakawa, California's colorful 70-year-old senator-elect, is a recent Republican convert who says he views campaigning as a combination of evangelism and standup comedy.

His own campaign contained elements of each. Picture the scene: The Japanese-American semantist is on his campaign train playing "Bye Bye Blackbird" on a harmonica. Dressed in a white suit and white shoes, light blue shirt and polka-dot tie, Hayakawa embarks from the train in San Diego and hears the crowd chanting: "We want Sam!"

Hayakawa pauses, then tells his admirers: "I love that sound ... we want Sam. Sam the samurai, yellow hope of the Republican party."

Swinehart Named To Equitable Federal Board

R. Dane Swinehart, general manager of South Central Power Company has been named a director of Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Assn., President Dwight Heister announced today.

Heister said, "Mr. Swinehart is a valuable addition to our board. His experience, knowledge and expertise as well as concern for excellent customer service have been well proven by his successful record as executive vice president and general manager of South Central Power Company."

A 20-year veteran at South Central, Swinehart has been manager of that firm since January 1, 1974. South Central Power Company, the fifth largest Rural Electric Cooperative in the U.S., has nearly 44,000 consumers in 19 Ohio counties. The company had over $20,000,000 in gross revenues in 1975, and now lists over $46,000,000 in assets.

In addition to his managerial duties, Swinehart is a director of Buckeye Power Company, Inc., president of the board of Rural Electric Supply Company, president of Ohio Managers Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives, and a member of the operating committee which operates the Cardinal Power Plant on the Ohio River. He is also an active member of the Lancaster Area Chamber of Commerce and a member of Columbus Chapter of Newcomen Society.

Swinehart was born in Perry County. He is a graduate of Lancaster High School, and has received his bachelor's degree from Ohio University, and a masters degree from Xavier University.

Swinehart, his wife Karen and three children, Stephanie, Steve and Kent are residents of Lancaster.

Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Association, headquartered in Lancaster, is a thrift and home loan financial institution with five offices serving three counties (Fairfield, Perry, Pickaway) and a sixth office scheduled to open in December, 1976 at Ashville, Ohio. Currently, assets of the Association are in excess of $78,000,000.

Soap Box Derby Date Announced

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The directors of the All-American Soap Box Derby have set Aug. 20 as the date for next year's 40th running of the gravity classic.

Derby officials said they expect 200 contestants, up from about 160 this year.

The race is divided into two divisions: a junior division for youngsters ages 10 through 12, and a senior division for 12 to 15 year olds.

Booster Club Plans Sports Banquet

Logan Elm School Booster Club will hold its Fall Sports Banquet 6 p.m. Monday at McDowell Exchange School.

Table service is to be brought for each one attending including players and cheerleaders, along with covered dishes for the dinner.

As with most of his quips, the short, pockish Republican was at least semiserious. He has said he wants to move the GOP forward in the 20th century, including more recruiting minorities to its ranks.

Hayakawa's campaign symbol was a tam-o'-shanter — the kind of hat he wore when television cameras filmed him ripping wires out of a student sound truck in 1968 at San Francisco State College.

He was then president of the school, and Hayakawa says the episode helped him become a folk hero of sorts — "in the same way Patrick Moynihan became a folk hero when he was cursing them out at the United Nations." Moynihan is a newly elected U.S. senator from New York.

After seeing universities "go down the drain" in the student radical days in the 1960s, Hayakawa said: "I stood up and I moved people very profoundly. I stood up to all the abuse the universities were taking."

During his campaign to unseat incumbent Democrat John Tunney, Dr. Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa lived up to his selfbilling as an "unpredictable" even though he spent a lot of time talking about traditional GOP issues such as the need for a streamlined bureaucracy and increased aid to the small-business man.

It wasn't just that Hayakawa was a nonpolitician. Californians elected song-and-danceman George Murphy senator in 1964 and former actor Ronald Reagan governor in 1966.

What made Hayakawa different was what else he talked about and how he behaved on the campaign trail.

He seemed to enjoy being an odd mixture, one moment brushing off a question on the Panama Canal with the line, "I think we ought to keep it, we stole it fair and square," and the next minute making an erudite comment on political theory.

One point he discussed in a serious way was his change of political parties. How could a man who called himself a liberal Democrat until three years ago now have conservative GOP backing?

"What happened to me happened to a considerable number of liberal intellectuals, many of them former Socialists, Irving Kristol, Sidney Hook, Daniel Bell, Daniel Moynihan, Seymour Lipset," he said.

"They stood for the traditional concept of academic freedom, for all parties, not just the left. They were united on the idea that universities were places for ideas, not just breaking windows."

Some of Hayakawa's campaign proposals were unique, to say the least.

At one point, he called on females to organize against Playboy and Penthouse because "women have a right to the privacy of their private parts."

He also said one way to urge Soviet-dominated countries to revolt was to send American jazz records to Eastern Europe to make people "really dissatisfied with their lot under a Communist tyranny."

And he observed that World War II Japanese-American internment camps weren't all bad — a remark which caused considerable controversy.

In response to reports that he napped during faculty meetings at San Francisco State, Hayakawa said he hoped senators were more interesting than some of his former faculty colleagues.

Nonetheless, Hayakawa, who switched from Democrat to Republican in 1973, defeated 42-year-old Tunney by nearly 227,000 votes.

Few voters knew much about Hayakawa other than his San Francisco State record. Born in Vancouver, B.C., he received his bachelor's degree from the University of Manitoba in 1927, his master's from McGill in 1928 and his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin in 1929.

In 1937, Hayakawa married Margedant Peters and had three children by her — one of them a retarded son who still lives with the couple in the San Francisco suburb of Mill Valley.

A fellowship evening was enjoyed by a number of persons at the Laurel Hills Church on last Sunday night. A bountiful carry-in supper at 6 p.m. preceded a most interesting program. Beautiful table decorations were provided and arranged by Mrs. Lois Swepston. The program was arranged by Mrs. Hattie Karr, Mrs. Virginia Newman and Mrs. Phyllis Swackhammer.

The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Carol Tatman. Readings were given by Mrs. Jacquie Bigham and Mrs. Newman. A men's vocal group comprised of Robert Swepston, Guy Tatman, Norman Thompson, Norwood Jinks and Lloyd Swackhammer sang two numbers accompanied by Mrs. Tatman. During one of their numbers, Mrs. Ruth Ann Swackhammer read a poem between the verses of the song.

The highlight of the program was the slides shown of the Western trip taken by a number of students and their chaperons from Logan Elm High School. Showing the slides was Vic Pontious, a teacher at L.E. who, with his wife, were two of the chaperones on the trip. At the close of the program Pontious was presented with a flower arrangement for his home by the program leaders. The Rev. Robert Hudgins gave the closing prayer.

Dick Karr, who spent a week in Riverside Hospital is at home again and he would like to thank his many friends for their cards, flowers, prayers and visits while he was in the hospital. Monday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Karr was Mrs. Clayton Lutz who is now living near Hallsville and near her nephew Jack Adkins and family.

Funeral service was held Tuesday in the Adelphi Methodist Church for the Rev. Lester McCandlish who died Friday at his home at Lakeside. Services were held on Monday at Lakeside and he was brought to Adelphi on Tuesday morning. The Rev. McCandlish was the Methodist minister on the Adelphi-Laurelville-Hallsville charge approximately 40 years ago. He was preceded in death by his first wife. He is survived by his second wife, the former Dorothy Hemminger, three daughters and two sons. Burial was made in Green Summit Cemetery, at Adelphi.

I recently had a letter from a friend who asked if I knew of any one who might have a copy of an old Adelphi Border News dated Aug. 11, 1905 also one dated Aug. 11, 1911. The lady would like to read an article in each paper concerning the history of the Mowery family believed to be in these two issues. If any one should have these papers as keepsakes they could write to Mrs. Helen Mowery, P.O. Box 975, Logan, Ohio 43138.

Miss Goldie Byers spent Sunday night and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Rick Allen and son Scott of Circleville.

If you have had any doubts about the corn crop this year, you should have tried to get past the Laurelville Grain and Mill Co. the past week. Trucks were waiting in line from the mill to the down town area and full length of Maple St. Ramon Maxson and his men have really been kept on the run.

If you think news is scarce this week, you are right. People tell me every week they enjoy reading the items but they forget to tell me when they have company, take a trip or just go visit Grandma and unless you give me your news I don't have any to write — I'm not a mind reader you know.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Hartsaugh during the weekend were their son Glen of Circleville on Saturday and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hartsaugh of Circleville on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kempton and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Paxton returned home last weekend from a two week vacation in Hawaii.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former rock 'n' roll star Jimmy Clanton, after a decade-long recording hiatus, has signed a long-term contract with the Starcrest label, the company has announced.

Among his biggest hits as an early rock 'n' roll star were "Just A Dream," "Go Jimmy Go," and "Venus in Blue Jeans."

stakes than the Rose Bowl will be watching.

A.L. Wallace, Ohio's director of economic development, has spent the past week in Troy with a team of 16 state and industrial leaders. The team is trying to induce Michigan firms to expand into Ohio.

If one should happen to move — well, Wallace said he wouldn't exactly discourage them. He plans to be back in Columbus Saturday for the Ohio State-University of Michigan football showdown.

Howard Cross, Michigan's deputy director of the Office of Economic Expansion, will also be at the game. He works with state industrial agents who contact Michigan and out-of-state firms and try to sell them on expansion in Michigan.

Ohio is watching Michigan and Michigan is watching Ohio. The states' recruiting activities rival those of Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler.

In Wallace's Columbus office, aide Freida Douthitt can tell you exactly how much Michigan is spending on radio advertising in the Columbus and Cleveland markets — $19,000 in each.

Wallace's department is using radio advertising to invite Southeast Michigan businessmen to call him at his hotel-office in Troy this week. He and the team of Ohio businessmen is contacting those Michigan residents who respond and others on a list of 300 firms which may plan to expand. Most of the people on Wallace's team represent Ohio gas and power utilities, railroads and local Chambers of Commerce.

The Ohio team stresses Ohio's central location in the nation's industrial belt, Ohio River and Great Lakes shipping ports.

Cross said Michigan has been a "have" state since the growth of the auto industry, and that makes it a target for other states' development teams.

"Michigan is a prime target," agreed Ms. Douthitt. "Ohio is very strong in automotive parts, second to Michigan in auto assembly. We feel we have a lot to offer that type of industry."

Still, the game retains some tinge of the Michigan-Ohio football rivalry. At the end of an Ohio ad on a Detroit radio station recently, the announcer added a tag in the manner of the credit ending a paid political advertisement.

After the last mention of the State of Ohio, the broadcaster added, "Woody Hayes, chief Buckeye."

Cleveland Integration Pushed Up

CLEVELAND (AP) — NAACP attorneys say Wednesday's ruling by the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati paves the way for putting a desegregation plan into effect in Cleveland schools by next fall.

The appeals court ruled that Cleveland schools cannot delay desegregation while appeals are being considered.

The three-judge panel upset an earlier ruling by Judge Paul Weick halting desegregation planning pending appeals.

At the same time, the panel agreed to hear appeals by the Cleveland and state school boards from U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti's ruling that both boards were responsible for segregation in Cleveland classrooms.

The appeals court noted that the prohibition against racial discrimination is one "already imposed by the Constitution" and said Battisti's order to school officials to stop discriminating and to submit desegregation plans was neither severe nor costly.

"The order does not compel defendants to perform any particular act, except to participate in the formulation of a remedial plan," the appeals court said. "The value of the constitutional rights to be protected far outweighs administrative costs that might be incurred in formulating a remedy."

Mutual Fund Group Declares Dividend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A quarterly dividend of nine cents per share has been approved by Mutual Investing Foundation trustees for the MIF Fund, one cent more than was paid during each of the three previous quarters. Trustees also approved a semiannual dividend for MIF Growth Fund of four cents a share, one cent more than each paid in the previous half year.

The trustees also approved a capital gains distribution for MIF Fund of 20 cents per share.

The dividends and capital gains distribution are payable Nov. 23 to shareholders of record Nov. 22.

MIF Fund sales for the past year were $13 million, compared with $10 million for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1975. MIF Growth Fund sales totaled $2.6 million for fiscal 1976 compared with $2.7 million for the last fiscal year.

Ford Motor Co. Recalls Some Autos

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is recalling 393,500 of its 1976 subcompact Pinto, Bobcat and Mustang II models because of a potential fuel-line defect which could cause a fire under the hood.

The auto maker announced the campaign on Tuesday, saying it has received 100 reports of under-the-hood fires. No collisions resulted from the blazes, but two persons suffered minor injuries, Ford said.

The recall affects models with 2.3-liter engines, including 372,000 in the United States, 20,100 in Canada and 1,400 overseas.

Ford said the fuel-line hose adjacent to the carburetor may have been assembled improperly and caused a fuel leakage which, in turn, could create a fire hazard.

Lower Utility Rate Plan Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio gas and electric companies plan to move ahead voluntarily with a plan that would lower rates for needy customers, says a public relations expert who aided the successful utility campaign against four ballot issues.

One of the issues, overwhelmingly defeated on election day, would have forced utilities to institute minimum bloc rates to all residential customers.

"The victory was a victory for common sense but not in any way a sign that the public was going to support the utilities on any issue," said Robert Maurer of Maurer, Fleisher, Zon and Anderson.

The Washington firm, which has a history of backing liberal Democrats, orchestrated a media campaign that was an instrumental part of a million dollar utility-backed effort to defeat issues 4, 5, 6, and 7.

But now, the utilities are ready to talk seriously about an alternative to, or variation of Issue 4, the "lifeline proposal." It would have forced them to provide minimum amounts of gas and electricity to all customers at low rates during winter months.

"We are going to do something," Maurer said in an interview. "There is a firm commitment."

Gov. James A. Rhodes recently praised a Toledo Edison plan to cut rates for the poor and elderly and added "there is no reason a similar plan cannot be worked out on a statewide basis."

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) is currently assessing a 107-page consultant's report on various types of lifeline systems.

The report, prepared by the Ohio State University Department of Mechanical and Nuclear Engineering, also discusses "peak load" or "time of day pricing," an oft-mentioned alternative to minimum bloc (lifeline) rates.

Under the time of day rate plan, residential customers who use gas and electric power during off-hours would pay less. A housewife, for instance, would be advised to operate a washing machine before 7 a.m., or after 7 p.m.

Maurer said the electric utilities and representatives of diverse interests that supported the campaign against the issues would meet privately next month to discuss the pricing issues.

The meeting will include officials from labor, industry and farm groups that banded together during the "Vote No. on 4-7" campaign. Groups that sat out the election, such as the League of Women Voters and Council of Churches, will also be invited, Maurer said.

The goal will be to reach a broad-based consensus on legislation that would provide rate relief for those who need it most—the poor, the elderly and the handicapped.

IH Workers Strike In 10 States

CHICAGO (AP)—Picketing by the United Auto Workers at International Harvester plants in 10 states appeared to be "fairly widespread," a company spokesman said this morning.

The spokesman said the UAW has not officially notified the company that the strike is on, but it appears that pickets are up at many plants.

The spokesman said negotiations in Chicago continued beyond the midnight strike deadline, but "I think they've got us shutdown," he said.

The spokesman said the extent of the shutdown would not be known until the morning shift began.

A union source said that without a settlement, it was unlikely that union members would report for work.

More than 40,000 persons are employed by Harvester in 10 states.

The employees have been working under an extension of a contract that was to have expired Oct. 1. They set a deadline of midnight Wednesday to go on strike if no contract agreement was achieved.

A strike by the United Auto Workers union members would shut down most of the company's operations nationwide, an International Harvester spokesman said.

The negotiations involved 40,500 workers, about 37,000 of them in plants where the firm produces and maintains trucks, construction equipment and agricultural equipment. Those plants are located in Chicago, Canton, East Moline and Rock Island, Ill.; Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Springfield, Ohio; Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn. About 8,300 employees work in five Chicago area plants. Another 8,200 work in other Harvester plants in Illinois.

The negotiations also covered clerical, technical, parts depot and distribution workers in Arizona, Georgia, Texas, Minnesota and Kansas.

A company spokesman said the talks were concentrating on salaries, hospitalization, working conditions and other fringe benefits.

The pact which was to expire at midnight provided an average hourly wage, including recent cost-of-living increases but not fringe benefits, of $7.05, the company said.

Negotiators were trying to agree on three contracts, one for production and maintenance workers, one for clerical and technical employees and one for workers at parts depots and distribution centers. Terms of each contract were expected to be similar.

The Harvester negotiations were the second round in the UAW's bargaining with what it calls the "Big Three" agricultural equipment manufacturers.

Of the three, only Deere & Co. is primarily devoted to producing farm equipment. Harvester focuses on trucks and Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria on earth-moving and other heavy construction equipment.

The union and Deere reached agreement after a strike in September. Talks with Caterpillar are stalled.

John Coulter, research director of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, said a strike would have only a slight effect on the city's transportation industry because Harvester does most of its own shipping.

He also said farmers would not have to curtail production since a good supply of farm equipment is ready for sale.

The last contract agreement reached between the UAW and Harvester came Nov. 1, 1973 after a contract extension and a 15-day strike.

A union source said that without a settlement, it was unlikely that union members would report for work.

More than 40,000 persons are employed by Harvester in 10 states.

The employees have been working under an extension of a contract that was to have expired Oct. 1. They set a deadline of midnight Wednesday to go on strike if no contract agreement was achieved.

A strike by the United Auto Workers union members would shut down most of the company's operations nationwide, an International Harvester spokesman said.

The negotiations involved 40,500 workers, about 37,000 of them in plants where the firm produces and maintains trucks, construction equipment and agricultural equipment. Those plants are located in Chicago, Canton, East Moline and Rock Island, Ill.; Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Springfield, Ohio; Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn. About 8,300 employees work in five Chicago area plants.

Another 8,200 work in other Harvester plants in Illinois.

The negotiations also covered clerical, technical, parts depot and distribution workers in Arizona, Georgia, Texas, Minnesota and Kansas.

A company spokesman said the talks were concentrating on salaries, hospitalization, working conditions and other fringe benefits.

The pact which was to expire at midnight provided an average hourly wage, including recent cost-of-living increases but not fringe benefits, of $7.05, the company said.

Negotiators were trying to agree on three contracts, one for production and maintenance workers, one for clerical and technical employees and one for workers at parts depots and distribution centers. Terms of each contract were expected to be similar.

The Harvester negotiations were the second round in the UAW's bargaining with what it calls the "Big Three" agricultural equipment manufacturers.

Of the three, only Deere & Co. is primarily devoted to producing farm equipment. Harvester focuses on trucks and Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria on earth-moving and other heavy construction equipment.

The union and Deere reached agreement after a strike in September. Talks with Caterpillar are stalled.

John Coulter, research director of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, said a strike would have only a slight effect on the city's transportation industry because Harvester does most of its own shipping.

He also said farmers would not have to curtail production since a good supply of farm equipment is ready for sale.

The last contract agreement reached between the UAW and Harvester came Nov. 1, 1973 after a contract extension and a 15-day strike.

Battelle Studies Data Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Battelle Laboratories here is conducting a 15-month study under a National Science Foundation grant to try to find out if local and state governments are getting the latest information necessary to do a better job.

Under the program, Battelle researchers are identifying and evaluating critical factors that lead to success in technology transfer programs and assessing the effectiveness of such programs.

Dr. Jules J. Duga, project director at Battelle, said researchers will seek to determine what programs fall under the definition of technology transfer, how they are supported, how they are carried out, and what results have been obtained.

Results of the study are expected to provide guidance on how public officials can obtain technical assistance more effectively.

Gilmore Episode Sympathy Ploy?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a genuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who has fought efforts to delay his execution, was expected to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison today.

He was found unconscious Tuesday

Set Study Of Erosion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Geneva State Park in Astabula County has been selected as one of 16 coastal sites around the country to be part of a federal study of erosion control, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said Wednesday.

Director Robert W. Teater said the park was selected by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for the study program, designed to test and evaluate erosion control measures for different types of shorelines.

Information from the study is to be made available to individual property owners to aid them in protecting their waterfront property.

The park, 50 miles east of Cleveland, has 6,500 feet of unprotected shoreline. Erosion has claimed portions of the park beach and threatened the park's cabin area.

morning after taking an overdose of sleeping pills in what prison officials called an apparent suicide pact with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20. He later developed pneumonia.

After regaining consciousness at the hospital Wednesday, Gilmore jerked the intravenous tubes from his arm, but doctors said the action did not jeopardize his recovery.

Doctors said Gilmore had not taken enough pills to cause death, even if he had not received emergency medical treatment.

Mrs. Barrett remained in critical condition in a coma at a Provo hospital after taking an overdose of pills at her apartment. Doctors said she was unable to breathe without a respirator and might have suffered brain damage.

Her mother said today that she had known of the suicide plot for two weeks and considered Gilmore "another Charles Manson," a reference to the California cult leader serving a life sentence for murder.

George Latimer, chairman of the three-man Utah Board of Pardons which will consider Gilmore's case, said he "wouldn't think his (Gilmore's) actions would have anything to do with what the board eventually decides in his case."

Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, said the double suicide attempt was "a moment of truth" that had caused him to stop supporting his client's wish to die.

"As long as I can see that possibility (of Gilmore and Mrs. Barrett to be together)...I know Gary would want to live."

Gilmore had been slated to die last Monday, but Gov. Calvin Rampton stayed the execution so the board could review his case at its regular meeting Wednesday. Gilmore's condition forced postponement of the review, and the board is scheduled to meet next on Dec. 6.

The board will either commute Gilmore's sentence for killing a motel clerk during a robbery or uphold the death penalty and send the case back to the trial judge for a new execution date. Latimer has indicated that the board may have little choice but to grant Gilmore's request to die.

Dr. Wesley Weissert, a psychiatric counselor at the Oregon State Prison, said Gilmore attempted suicide there in 1974 and that the doctor expected Gilmore to try it again.

A spokesman said the convict had access to television, and he said he presumed Gilmore watched news reports of himself and Mrs. Barrett.

In another development, the Tribune said it has filed a complaint with a federal judge asking the state's correctional boards and officials to withdraw a policy banning interviews with Gilmore.

Report Clash In Lebanon Near Israel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist Lebanese Moslems say Christian militiamen and Israeli commandos attacked Kfar Kial, a Moslem village several hundred yards from the Israeli border, touching off savage fighting.

"Israeli border gun batteries are shelling the village as well as its northern approaches to prevent dispatch of any reinforcements," said a communique Wednesday from the Lebanese Arab Army, made up of leftist Moslems who were in the Lebanese army until it disintegrated during the civil war.

Authoritative military sources in Tel Aviv denied that Israel was involved. But there was no way to determine the validity of either report.

Residents of Metulla, an Israeli settlement just south of the Lebanese border, reported hearing artillery fire across the frontier.

Kfar Kial is on the edge of the Arkoub, the region in southeast Lebanon used by the Palestinian guerrillas as a staging area for raids into Israel until they got involved in the Lebanese war.

The cease-fire agreement concluded at the Arab summit meetings in Riyadh and Cairo last month provides for the Palestinians to return to the Arkoub, but the Israelis have said they would not permit this. Since the cease-fire Oct. 21, hundreds of guerrillas have been reported moving south through the Syrian lines, and Israel last week shelled targets in the region.

The Syrian forces that invaded Lebanon in June to prevent a leftist Moslem victory and now constitute the bulk of the peacekeeping force have stayed well away from the southern border, apparently to avoid provoking an Israeli attack.

The only other major areas of Lebanon they do not control are the Moslem ports of Tripoli and Sidon, the country's second and third largest cities. Tripoli is 60 miles north of Beirut and Sidon 25 miles south of the capital.

The Syrians are reported preparing to move into both cities.

ASHVILLE KIWANIS — The Ashville Kiwanis Club met Tuesday night with members and ladies in attendance for the annual Thanksgiving meal. The entertainment for the evening was Revelations Quartet, singing many religious selections.

Speedy Trial Rule Eased By Justices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Speedy trials are guaranteed under state law only when a defendant is in the custody of officials in the county where charges against him are pending, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled.

The high court also said Wednesday that the speedy trial law, which took effect on Jan. 1, 1974, is not retroactive.

The unanimous ruling overturned a Court of Appeals decision in the case of Gary MacDonald, 30 of Cleveland, who is serving a minimum eight year term in the Southern Ohio Correctional Institute for armed robbery and carrying a concealed weapon.

MacDonald argued that the 90-day limit for bringing a case to trial when a defendant is in jail should have been applied to time he served in federal prison.

The speedy trial rule also mandates that defendants must go on trial within 270 days of arrest if they are not incarcerated.

MacDonald was in federal custody in the Mahoning County jail in Youngstown from Oct. 17, 1973 to April 24, 1974 when he was sentenced to two years in federal prison, in Terre Haute, Ind.

He had been arrested on state charges in 1973, but was released on bail and subsequently skipped his arraignment, at which point Cleveland authorities lost track of him, according to Asst. Prosecutor George J. Sadd.

On July, 1, 1974, MacDonald was located by the Cuyahoga County prosecutor's office which asked for his return and trial. The request was granted but MacDonald asked that the state charges be dismissed for lack of a speedy trial.

He was subsequently convicted on the robbery and weapons charges before the Court of Appeals upheld his speedy trial claim.

In its reversal, the Supreme Court said the 90-day limit "is applicable only to those defendants in jail in lieu of bail solely on the pending (state) charge."

Further, the court said computation of either trial limit is not retroactive and should be figured from Jan. 1, 1974, for actions then pending, rather than the actual earlier date of arrest."

Senior Citizens Conference Held At Salt Fork Lodge

The Annual Conference of the Ohio Association of Centers for Senior Citizens met at Salt Fork Lodge in Cambridge, Ohio on November 15 and 16th. Representing Pickaway Senior citizens were members Dorothy Smith, Isabella Badger and Florence Spangler. Staff from the Center attending were Wanda Hamilton, Vera Saunders and Barbara Robinson.

Following luncheon, Dr. Mildred Seltzer of Miami University opened the conference with a very informative speech on the topic, "Senior Centers are an Unique Force in the Aging Field, both in Problems and Potential of older Persons".

There were three Concurrent Workshops: "Psychology of Aging", "Education & Careers in Aging", and "Body Maintenance" early in the afternoon. "Men at Work" was the title for the late afternoon program, which had several fine displays, demonstrations and information.

The evening speakers following the delightful banquet were Dr. Thomas

Robb, Project Coordinator National Institute Senior Centers, and National Council on Aging, and Martin Janis, Director of the Ohio Commission on Aging. Evening entertainment found many shuffling around at a 50-50 Hoe Down with a midnight swim to finish the night.

Tuesday morning provided two concurrent sessions of workshops: "Management by Objectives", "The Older Woman", "Public Relation, Marketing the Center", "Motivation of Center Members", "How to be an Effective Advocate", and "Understanding Aging Through Films".

Each of these sessions was attended by one staff member and one senior citizen. On the journey home all shared their experiences and new information and hope to be able to apply their new knowledge to the benefit of our community.

Kankakee River Flooding Studied

HIGHLAND, Ind. (AP) — Indiana and Illinois officials apparently will not meet soon to discuss the Kankakee River Valley flooding problem.

Farmers had hoped the meeting would take place this month.

However, officials said a steering committee will meet Dec. 9 to plan the two-state conference, expected to be in the format of a one-day workshop for public officials and business, farming and environmental groups.

Jury To Get Slaying Case

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The jury hearing the kidnap-murder trial of John Garside should get the case today upon completion of closing arguments.

The defense rested its case Wednesday as the trial stretched into its eighth week. Garside is charged in the kidnap-slashing murder of James J. Crawford, a suburban Detroit banker who was abducted outside his bank Dec. 9 and driven to rural, northeastern Licking County where he was killed.

William V. Nabozny of Dearborn, Mich. already has been convicted on similar charges in the case and faces the death sentence.

Common Pleas Court Judge Winston C. Allen has presided over the Garside trial during which the defendant, who was in Detroit at the time of the murder, has contended he was acting as an FBI informant in the case.

Jury Acquits Young Woman

CLEVELAND (AP) — Twenty-one-year-old Mindi Wieder says she just wants to "go back to school now and try to put my life back together" after being found innocent of charges of killing her father.

A Common Pleas Court jury returned an innocent verdict Wednesday, ending an ordeal that started for the Ohio State University coed when she was arrested last April and charged with aggravated murder in the June 4, 1975 shooting death of Morton Wieder.

Her attorneys said during the trial that they believed Wieder, 47, was slain by professional killer, possibly over a gambling debt or because of a love affair.

Mindi said police "knew all along I did not do it...I don't know why they did it to me."

"I do," said her mother, Jacqueline. "University Heights had to pin my husband's murder on someone, so they picked Mindi."

"They were wrong in April when she was arrested, and the jury proved they were just as wrong today."

Prosecutors who handled the case had no comment.

Rate Case Hassle In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Citizens Energy Coalition says it filed a motion with the Public Service Commission Friday, asking that Commissioner William Powers disqualify himself in a rate case now under consideration.

The utility consumer group asked that Powers not participate further in the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co. request for a 72 per cent rate increase.

The CEC said Powers told reporters last Oct. 8 that he felt it was a "foregone conclusion" that a temporary rate surcharge of 27.6 per cent would be made permanent.

The CEC said the statement indicated an attitude of making the verdict first and then looking at the evidence. The group called the situation an "Alice in Wonderland" approach to rate setting.

Man Survives Trip Under Wood Chips

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Daniel Durham says he looks at life differently now that he has the chips off his shoulders — some 30,000 pounds of them that entombed him alive for 90 minutes.

Durham was dumped into a truck, buried under six feet of wood chips and carried 40 miles while his screams went unheard. Someone even walked over the chips, unaware that Durham was buried beneath.

"All of a sudden I was falling, and then I was buried," Durham said Wednesday. "I may have blacked out a couple times from suffocation. I knew I couldn't last more than five minutes more."

Durham was leveling chips in an elevated bin last Friday when he was dumped accidentally into the truck, which then headed for a fiber company 40 miles away.

Jerry Thorp, supervisor at Lumber Specialty Industries Inc., said Durham had neglected to block the driveway with a board that keeps trucks from backing under the bin while somebody is working in it. Better safety precautions since have been instituted, Thorp said.

"I knew I was going to die," Durham said. "I struggled, I yelled, but nobody heard me. Then I realized I had better save my energy."

Durham said he was nearly trampled and suffocated when the truck stopped at a weigh station. "I could feel somebody walking right on top of me there, but no one heard me yelling," he said.

Unknown to Durham, back at the lumber company Thorp had noticed him gone about 15 minutes after the truck pulled away. Realizing he might be in the truck, Thorp phoned fiber company officials, who contacted the driver by radio.

An ambulance awaited the truck at Longview, and workers dug and clawed Durham free. He escaped with only three cracked ribs and internal bleeding which has cleared up.

"I'm not religious, but I have second thoughts now," he said. "I know God had something to do with me making it."

'Prairie Privy Rule' Stir Shakes Up OSHA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal safety agency that is drawing up an outhouse regulation has learned a lesson from the uproar over what irate farmers called "the privy on every prairie" rule, an official says.

The experience for the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) appears to have been as sobering as one of those fabled "trips out back" on a frosty morning.

"I'm sure that OSHA learned a lot" from the flap, said Maynard Dolloff, OSHA's special adviser for agricultural affairs.

The furor, which erupted last June, resulted in a congressional curb on OSHA's authority and an awareness within the agency of what is needed to restore its credibility, he said.

OSHA also drew flak for its farm safety booklets — said to be aimed at barely literate laborers — advising, among other things, that wet manure is slippery and that farmers should "speak softly to cows."

OSHA originally planned to require field toilets and drinking facilities within five minutes' reach of any farmworker. Farmers from around the country ridiculed the proposal as costly and impractical. They said nature's call could best be met in more informal ways or by driving to toilet accommodations.

The privy rule is still being considered, but Dolloff said it probably will apply only to such farms as fruit-growing operations and large truck farms, which frequently hire large numbers of migrant workers.

Assistant Labor Secretary Morton Corn soon will hold hearings in farm communities on the proposal.

"He's going to try to get some sense in that thing," said Dolloff, a former Maine agricultural commissioner brought to OSHA 11 months ago by Corn. "Anyone with any common sense should have known it was never meant to apply to prairies. But it's true it wasn't clearly worded."

A Skubitz-sponsored amendment that became law last month prohibits OSHA from inspecting farms with less than 10 workers and exempts those farms from other OSHA rules about agriculture.

Vanik Against Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, Wednesday voiced his opposition to a tax cut plan under consideration by President-elect Jimmy Carter and his economic advisors.

"I oppose a general tax cut because it is an inefficient tool to stimulate the economy and increase employment," Vanik said in a statement. "I prefer a public works jobs program which would attack unemployment directly and at a substantially lower cost than a massive tax cut."

He also said that he thinks tax cuts in the past have proven their ineffectiveness in that the amount for individuals is too little to stimulate the economy.

Eldridge Cleaver Returns To Paris

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Eldridge Cleaver, 41, the former Black Panther who ended his seven-year fugitive exile abroad one year ago today, is observing the anniversary by returning to Paris.

Cleaver is free on $100,000 bail while awaiting trial on attempted murder charges stemming from a 1968 shootout with Oakland police.

A spokesman said Cleaver would spend "about 10 days to two weeks meeting with publishers in Paris and Germany who have the European rights to his books."

Speedy Trial Rule Eased By Justices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Speedy trials are guaranteed under state law only when a defendant is in the custody of officials in the county where charges against him are pending, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled.

The high court also said Wednesday that the speedy trial law, which took effect on Jan. 1, 1974, is not retroactive.

The unanimous ruling overturned a Court of Appeals decision in the case of Gary MacDonald, 30 of Cleveland, who is serving a minimum eight year term in the Southern Ohio Correctional Institute for armed robbery and carrying a concealed weapon.

MacDonald argued that the 90-day limit for bringing a case to trial when a defendant is in jail should have been applied to time he served in federal prison.

The speedy trial rule also mandates that defendants must go on trial within 270 days of arrest if they are not incarcerated.

MacDonald was in federal custody in the Mahoning County jail in Youngstown from Oct. 17, 1973 to April 24, 1974 when he was sentenced to two years in federal prison, in Terre Haute, Ind.

He had been arrested on state charges in 1973, but was released on bail and subsequently skipped his arraignment, at which point Cleveland authorities lost track of him, according to Asst. Prosecutor George J. Sudd.

On July, 1, 1974, MacDonald was located by the Cuyahoga County prosecutor's office which asked for his return and trial. The request was granted but MacDonald asked that the state charges be dismissed for lack of a speedy trial.

He was subsequently convicted on the robbery and weapons charges before the Court of Appeals upheld his speedy trial claim.

In its reversal, the Supreme Court said the 90-day limit "is applicable only to those defendants in jail in lieu of bail solely on the pending (state) charge."

Further, the court said computation of either trial limit is not retroactive and should be figured from Jan. 1, 1974, for actions then pending, rather than the actual earlier date of arrest."

Senior Citizens Conference Held At Salt Fork Lodge

The Annual Conference of the Ohio Association of Centers for Senior Citizens met at Salt Fork Lodge in Cambridge, Ohio on November 15 and 16th. Representing Pickaway Senior citizens were members Dorothy Smith, Isabella Badger and Florence Spangler. Staff from the Center attending were Wanda Hamilton, Vera Saunders and Barbara Robinson.

Following luncheon, Dr. Mildred Seltzer of Miami University opened the conference with a very informative speech on the topic, "Senior Centers are a Unique Force in the Aging Field, both in Problems and Potential of older Persons".

There were three Concurrent Workshops: "Psychology of Aging", "Education & Careers in Aging", and "Body Maintenance" early in the afternoon. "Men at Work" was the title for the late afternoon program, which had several fine displays, demonstrations and information.

The evening speakers following the delightful banquet were Dr. Thomas

Robb, Project Coordinator National Institute Senior Centers, and National Council on Aging, and Martin Janis, Director of the Ohio Commission on Aging. Evening entertainment found many shuffling around at a 50-50 Hoe Down with a midnight swim to finish the night.

Tuesday morning provided two concurrent sessions of workshops: "Management by Objectives", "The Older Woman," "Public Relation, Marketing the Center," "Motivation of Center Members", "How to be an Effective Advocate", and "Understanding Aging Through Films".

Each of these sessions was attended by one staff member and one senior citizen. On the journey home all shared their experiences and new information and hope to be able to apply their new knowledge to the benefit of our community.

Upper Lansdowne Golf Course Leased By Collins

LANDSDOWNE LEASED — Don and Ann Collins (in golf cart) have leased Upper Lansdowne golf course to Professional Lawn

Care of Ashville. Members of the firm are, standing from the left, Steve Scott, Art Litter, Roger Gloyd and Damon Welch.

Don Collins, owner of Upper Lansdowne Golf, announced he has leased the operation of the course to Professional Lawn Care of Ashville.

The new operators of the course are Roger Gloyd, Steve Scott, Damon Welch and Art Litter.

"The team of Professional Lawn Care will lend their combined talents to operating Upper Lansdowne with the enjoyment of those who play the game in mind," Collins said. "We are really proud to turn the business end of our golf course over to the expertise of Professional Lawn Care."

"Since we started our golf course in 1963 we have enjoyed knowing and serving the golfers of Circleville, Ashville and surrounding cities and towns. We have decided that it is time to slow down and turn the work load over to those who can carry on and assume the responsibilities of the golf course management," Collins said.

The new management plans no changes in the operation of the course. Green fees and memberships will remain the same, with the exception a 10 per cent discount is being offered for memberships purchased before March 1.

Welch will serve as the golf professional and tournament manager. A native of Chillicothe, he is a graduate of Chillicothe High School and Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky., where he received his bachelor's degree in physical education. He taught school two years at Walnut Twp. School before joining Professional Lawn Care.

Gloyd will serve as greens superintendent. He is a native of Ashville and a graduate of Teays Valley High School. He attended the Ohio State Agricultural Research and Development Center at Wooster where he received an associate degree in turfgrass management. He worked at Lansdowne for a year before joining Professional Lawn Care.

Scott and Litter will continue to devote most of their time to Professional Lawn Care. Scott is a native of Mt. Vernon, Ohio and is a graduate of Ohio State University where he received a bachelor of science in turfgrass management. He was employed by O. M. Scott and Sons as golf course representative before

Parking Meters Victim Of Sports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City officials here will remove the business ends of 355 parking meters in the Ohio State University area for the upcoming weekend matchup between Michigan and OSU and they think the move will save as much as $25,000.

Working from experience, the Division of Traffic Engineering figures its cheaper to spend $200-$300 in labor to remove the meter heads than to replace them as they had to after the OSU-Michigan meeting here four years ago. Celebrating fans tore them off.

joining Lawn Care.

Litter is a graduate of Paint Valley High School and Morehead State, and has a bachelor's degree in business. He was previously employed by Ralston Purina.

The new managers feel their two business ventures are very compatible.

Don and Ann Collins will continue to live at Lansdowne. Collins will remain active on the farm and will assist with the operation of the golf course when needed.

Jerry Scanlan Gains MSL Berth

Logan Elm's Jerry Scanlan has been named to the All-Mid State League defensive team for the 1976 season. Scanlan was named to a spot in the defensive backfield. He gained honorable mention at a linebacker spot also.

JERRY SCANLAN

Scanlan was a key in the Braves' offense this season, and he could also be counted on to plug the gaps on defense. The fact that he was named to two positions on the defensive team attests to his ability in helping stop the score.

Honorable mention on the star-studded squad are Rick McCain and Tim Justus. McCain was instrumental in opening the holes in the opposition's line that Justus and Scanlan would make their way through. Justus was a bit smaller than most running backs, but don't tell that to any defensive players in the MSL, because he ran with the authority of a 200 pounder.

Dave Cotner of Bloom-Carroll was chosen as the Mid-State League's Most Valuable Player, and Dave Stephenson of Fairfield Union received the MSL's Hall of Fame Award. This honor goes to a senior player who shows outstanding sportsmanship, and character and academic achievement. Jack Johnson of Pickerington was named as the league's outstanding coach.

Here is the entire All-Mid State League football team for 1976: Of offense, Ends: Neil Seymour, Canal Winchester and Kevin Glaspool, Liberty Union; Tackles: Jack Neil, Pickerington and Mark Hughes, Canal Winchester; Guards: Mike Polk, Amanda-Clearcreek and Randy Romine, Bloom-Carroll; Center: Brett Barnes, Fairfield Union; Fullback: Greg Storts, Bloom-Carroll; Halfbacks: Mark Marshall, Amanda-Clearcreek and Bob Stansberry, Pickerington; Quarterback: Dave Cotner, Bloom-Carroll; Kicking Specialist: Terry Griffith, Pickerington.

On Defense, Ends: Tony Borgan, Berne Union and Dave Noble, Pickerington; Tackles: Dave Smith, Pickerington and Doug Hughes, Bloom-Carroll; Middleguard: Lee Chatters, Amanda; Linebackers: Dave Russell, Pickerington and Dave Stephenson, Fairfield Union; Halfbacks: Jerry Scanlan, Logan Elm, Mike Sharpes, Berne Union, Andy Flowers, Fisher Catholic, and Doug Behrons, Bloom-Carroll.

Logan Elm also placed three golfers in honorable mention at the league golf meeting recently. The three are Randy Watkins, Jeff Kamler, and Paul Nagle. Golfer of the Year in the MSL is Matt Moury from Fairfield Union. Coach of the Year for golf is Joanne Baumer from Bloom-Carroll.

Top-ranked Pittsburgh will be celebrating New Year's in New Orleans, having decided it can best further its quest for college football's national championship by taking on Southeastern Conference titlist Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

While bowl bids may not be tendered until 6 p.m., EST, Saturday, the seniors and starters on the 10-0 Pitt team have already met and decided the Sugar Bowl looked sweet to them.

And if the No. 1 team in the country — with a super attraction like running back Tony Dorsett — wants the Sugar Bowl, you can rest assured the Sugar Bowl will want Pitt. Interestingly, Dorsett says he had favored the Orange Bowl, but "majority rules," so he'll head for New Orleans.

In other developments as teams jockey for position in the bowl lineup, unbeaten Maryland appears headed for a clash with the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl, defending national champion Oklahoma is a likely opponent for Western Athletic Conference king Wyoming in the Fiesta Bowl and thrice-beaten Alabama is expected to be invited to the Liberty Bowl.

That decision made a happy man of Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, whose club earned an automatic trip to New Orleans as the SEC champion and now has a chance to knock off No. 1.

"I am pleased the No. 1-ranked team has decided to accept the Sugar Bowl invitation, if offered," Dooley said.

And lest there be any doubt about it, Sugar Bowl officials in New Orleans confirmed they planned to invite Pitt.

The Big Eight champion will be one half of the Orange Bowl matchup, but Pitt's decision leaves the other spot up for grabs.

Maryland, 10-0 and tied for the No. 6 ranking, will reportedly be invited to journey to the Cotton Bowl in Dallas — its first bowl bid in 21 years — but only if the Terps close out their season with a victory over Virginia Saturday.

Two of this weekend's games will clear up the bowl picture considerably — the Big Ten title clash between Ohio State and Michigan and the Pacific-8 showdown between UCLA and Southern Cal.

The winners, of course, will meet in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., the granddaddy of them all. But it looks like the losers will also see some bowl action.

The Fiesta Bowl is expected to invite Oklahoma, while Executive Director Bud Dudley of the Liberty Bowl says: "Alabama is certainly high on our list."

The Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, meanwhile, is reportedly interested in luring Texas A&M to be its home team.

Maple Leafs Beat Montreal In NHL, 1-0

Rookie Mike Palmateer had a little talk with himself before going out to play goal for the Toronto Maple Leafs against the Montreal Canadiens.

"I said to myself I'd be happy with only four goals against," said the 22-year-old netminder, who went on to exceed his expectations with his second consecutive shutout and the first against the high-scoring Canadiens in 192 regular-season National Hockey League games since Nov. 2, 1974, as Toronto blanked Montreal 1-0 Wednesday night.

After thwarting attempts by Steve Shutt — the league's leading goal scorer — and Rejean Houle early in the game, Palmateer got the only goal he needed from Lanny McDonald's 40-foot shot at 8:26 of the first period.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, the St. Louis Blues and Detroit Red Wings tied 5-5, the Atlanta Flames beat the Colorado Rockies 6-3, the New York Rangers trimmed the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2, the Cleveland Barons and the Minnesota North Stars tied 3-3, and the Buffalo Sabres topped the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Palmateer, who blanked Vancouver last Saturday night, made 39 stops in besting the Canadiens.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Quarterback Bob Mauch of Ohio Wesleyan and halfback Dan Wilch of Ohio Northern won offensive honors, while linebacker Bob Ruble of Otterbein and defensive back Hank Devoe of Ohio Northern took the defensive awards in this week's Ohio Athletic Conference Player of the Week selections.

Mauch completed his college career in a 38-9 victory over Denison, hitting on 14 of 22 passes for 176 yards and two touchdowns.

Ruble made 13 tackles in Otterbein's 14-7 victory over Marietta, while Devoe made 12 tackles, recovered a fumble and blocked a punt in his team's 35-12 triumph over Heidelberg. Both defensive stars are seniors.

Sophomore Wilch rushed for 62 yards and scored two touchdowns for his team.

Bengals, Chiefs Set Weekend Collision

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three years ago, Vince Costello worked at ways to shut down offenses facing the Cincinnati Bengals. This week he tries his luck at stopping his old team.

"There's no question that Vince is a great asset to them this week," said Cincinnati coach Bill Johnson Wednesday as the Bengals readied for Sunday's National Football League meeting with the air-minded Kansas City Chiefs.

Costello spent six years as the Bengals linebacker before moving on to the Miami Dolphins and Kansas City after helping Cincinnati to a 10-4 season in 1973.

Now he is the defensive coordinator of the 3-7 Chiefs, who are slowly trying to build a defense to match their high-powered offense.

"He knows our system, our audibles and our offensive structure. Being well acquainted without personnel, he knows what they like to do."

"It's something we have to think about," said Johnson.

Costello, who succeeded Bill Arnsparger as Miami's defensive boss, was the first assistant appointed by Chiefs coach Paul Wiggan a year ago. While the Bengals offense tries to shake off two straight mediocre first-half outings, the Cincinnati defense must corral the No. 1 passing team in the NFL.

"They have a potent passing attack," said Johnson. "They do a great job of cleverly disguising their pass patterns."

The Chiefs are averaging almost 230 yards passing per game but the defense is giving up 30 points per outing.

"We can expect to see a lot of deep patterns," said Johnson. Quarterback Mike Livingston has completed 57 per cent of his passes for nearly 2,100 yards. His chief targets are fullback McArthur Lane, who already has 43 receptions; and Walter White and Larry Brunson.

The Bengals will be without their top inside pass rusher, Bill Kollar, who is expected to miss his third straight game.

Kollar is out with a foot injury and kickoff return specialist Willie Shelby will miss the game with a sore knee, Johnson said.

Archie Griffin, the two-time Heisman Trophy winner, will replace Shelby, who ranks fourth in the AFC with a 26.3 average per return.

Parking Meters Victim Of Sports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City officials here will remove the business ends of 355 parking meters in the Ohio State University area for the upcoming weekend matchup between Michigan and OSU and they think the move will save as much as $25,000.

Working from experience, the Division of Traffic Engineering figures its cheaper to spend $200-$300 in labor to remove the meter heads than to replace them as they had to after the OSU-Michigan meeting here four years ago. Celebrating fans tore them off.

Jerry Scanlan Gains MSL Berth

Logan Elm's Jerry Scanlan has been named to the All-Mid State League defensive team for the 1976 season. Scanlan was named to a spot in the defensive backfield. He gained honorable mention at a linebacker spot also.

JERRY SCANLAN

Scanlan was a key in the Braves' offense this season, and he could also be counted on to plug the gaps on defense. The fact that he was named to two positions on the defensive team attests to his ability in helping stop the score.

Honorable mention on the star-studded squad are Rick McCain and Tim Justus. McCain was instrumental in opening the holes in the opposition's line that Justus and Scanlan would make their way through. Justus was a bit smaller than most running backs, but don't tell that to any defensive players in the MSL, because he ran with the authority of a 200 pounder.

Dave Cotner of Bloom-Carroll was chosen as the Mid-State League's Most Valuable Player, and Dave Stephenson of Fairfield Union received the MSL's Hall of Fame Award. This honor goes to a senior player who shows outstanding sportsmanship, and character and academic achievement.

Jack Johnson of Pickerington was named as the loop's outstanding coach.

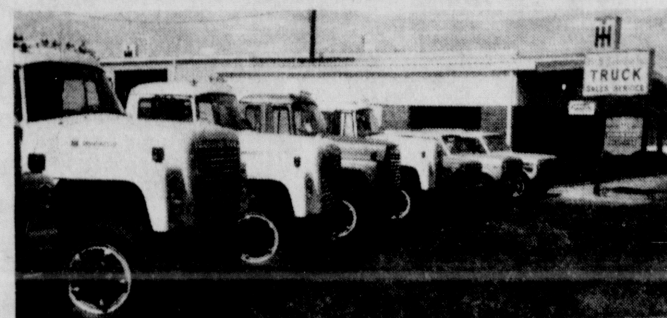

Here is the entire All-Mid State League football team for 1976:

Of offense, Ends: Neil Seymour, Canal Winchester and Kevin Glaspool, Liberty Union; Tackles: Jack Neil, Pickerington and Mark Hughes, Canal Winchester; Guards: Mike Polk, Amanda-Clearcreek and Randy Romine, Bloom-Carroll; Center: Brett Barnes, Fairfield Union; Fullback: Greg Storts, Bloom-Carroll; Halfbacks: Mark Marshall, Amanda-Clearcreek and Bob Stansberry, Pickerington; Quarterback: Dave Cotner, Bloom-Carroll; Kicking Specialist: Terry Griffith, Pickerington.

On Defense, Ends: Tony Borgan, Berne Union and Dave Noble, Pickerington; Tackles: Dave Smith, Pickerington and Doug Hughes, Bloom-Carroll; Middleguard: Lee Chattos, Amanda; Linebackers: Dave Russell, Pickerington and Dave Stephenson, Fairfield Union; Halfbacks: Jerry Scanlan, Logan Elm, Mike Sharpes, Berne Union, Andy Flowers, Fisher Catholic, and Doug Behrons, Bloom-Carroll.

Logan Elm also placed three golfers in honorable mention at the league golf meeting recently. The three are Randy Watkins, Jeff Kamler, and Paul Nagle. Golfer of the Year in the MSL is Matt Moury from Fairfield Union. Coach of the Year for golf is Joanne Baumer from Bloom-Carroll.

ON A TRICYCLE BUILT FOR THIRTY-FIVE—A tricycle built in Hadsund, Jutland, holds 35 people. The cycle was made from 78 old cycles, 70 sprocket wheels, 165 feet of

Miami Favored In Basketball

PERRYSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Darrell Hedric, the coach of heavily favored Miami's MidAmerican Conference basketball title contenders, took his team's favoritism in stride.

"I've never won a game up in front of the press yet," said Hedric, his team almost a unanimous choice of the media Wednesday to supplant Western Michigan as the Mid-American champion.

"Every coach knows games are won on the floor," said Hedric. "If not, give me the trophy and I'll go home and practice and wait for the NCAA Tournament."

Still, Hedric was one of the 10 league coaches who voted for his Redskins to grab the MAC title, something their favored football team could not do.

Miami also picked up all but two of the 74 first-place votes among the newsmen voting. Toledo was second and Central Michigan was third in both polls. Defending champion Western Michigan was fourth in the media ratings, sixth among the coaches.

The voting in both polls, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Coaches-Miami (10) 100 points, Toledo 83, Central Michigan 70, Kent State 62, Ball State 56, Western Michigan 55, Bowling Green 46, Ohio University 35, Eastern Michigan 26 and Northern Illinois 17.

Media-Miami (2) 737 points, Toledo (1) 586, Central Michigan (1) 436, Western Michigan 435, Ball State 419, Kent State 412, Ohio 355, Bowling Green 336, Eastern Michigan 186 and Northern Illinois 135.

A team-by-team rundown, with their all-game and league records from last year in parentheses:

MIAMI (18-6, 14-2)—The Redskins return 10 lettermen, including four regulars in 6-5 forwards Archie Aldridge and Chuck Goodyear, 6-6 center Randy Ayers and 6-2 guard John Shoemaker. Miami also has 6-11 North Carolina State transfer Bill Lake eligible.

Hedric believes in a revolving-door lineup, saying, "How many times do you lose games in the first half? Our practices are very alive. The players are not sleeping through our scouting reports. I used to believe starters are better than the guys on the bench. I don't anymore. Get a fresh guy in there for a tired one."

TOLEDO (18-7, 13-3)—Bobby Nichols, a player or coach in the MAC since 1949, has two returning starters, 6-8 Dave Speicher and 6-5 Ted Williams. "But three of our five are questionable players right now," said Nichols.

The Rockets shot a record 51 per cent from the floor last year and Nichols said, "It's almost wrong to say we could shoot that well again. Place to make up for it would be better rebounding."

CENTRAL MICHIGAN (12-14, 8-8)—The Chippewas have two of the league's best players, 6-9, 235-pound center Ben Poquette and 6-2 swift forward Leonard Drake. "But this season is a nightmare because we have so many people," said Coach Dick Parfitt.

He seems a bit sensitive about five transfers, one of them ex-Michigan Stater Jeff Tropf from Toledo. "We don't do anything special to get transfers. We're probably one of the most honest schools in the country."

WESTERN MICHIGAN (25-3, 15-1)—Gone from the championship Broncos are the head coach, Eldon Miller, and four regulars. Back is splendid center Tom Cutter, a 6-9 senior who averaged 12.9 points and 10.6 rebounds a season ago.

Dick Shiltz takes over the coaching reins from his old boss, Eldon Miller, and said, "We're a young team making a lot of mistakes in practice. I have to bite my lip to remember we are young. I don't feel any pressure, but we haven't lost yet either."

BALL STATE (11-14, 5-11)—Cardinals have four returning regulars, same as Miami, and could be a darkhorse. The returnees are 6-9 Randy Boarden, 6-7 Pete Kuzma, 6-2 Jim Fields and 6-foot Jim Hahn, plus 6-9 transfer Robert Sims from West Virginia.

KENT STATE (12-14, 7-9)—Flashes will build around two excellent holdover scorers, 6-5 James Collins and 5-10 Cortez Brown. Coach Rex Hughes Jr. will start two freshmen, 6-7 Steve Hartings and 6-9 Burl Nesbitt, but warned: "I'm not conceding anything to anybody. I think it will be a dogfight."

OHIO (11-15, 7-9)—Bobcats started two freshmen a year ago, 6-5 Steve Skaggs and 6-2 Bucky Walden. Mid-season eligibility of transfers Tim Joyce, 6-5 forward from Tennessee, and Scott Stephens, 6-10 center from Pittsburgh, will help. "We're much quicker at all positions this year and should be much better defensively because of it," said Coach Dale Bandy.

BOWLING GREEN (12-15, 8-8)—John Weinert is the new coach and his only superstar is Tommy Harris, a 6-4 forward who averaged 19 points last winter. Ron Hammye, a 6-10 center, and Dan Hipsher, a 6-5 forward, are holdover starters. "We could be shut out this year, I think," wryly said Weinert after surveying his talent.

EASTERN MICHIGAN (7-20, 1-15)—Ray Scott, fired from the professional Detroit Pistons, takes over the coaching reins with one dependable, 6-9 center Bob Riddle. "What we're trying to do is rebuild our program around Riddle," said Scott. His biggest transition to college competition? "My budget. The next biggest transition is that players simply aren't as talented."

NORTHERN ILLINOIS (5-21, 2-14)—John McDougal tries to upgrade the Huskies after a 26-year Illinois prep coaching career. "We've got 13 lettermen, but unfortunately we don't have 13 players," said the candid McDougal. "Matthew Hicks (6-4 senior who led the MAC in scoring with a 25.0 average) may be the best player in the conference."

Top Baseball Players Make Deals

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to longterm deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employees of the A's and owner Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Rudi, who carried a million-dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like the good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him."

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when

Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the sale to Boston.

Only a strike threat by the rest of the team forced Finley to restore Rudi, Fingers and Vida Blue to active duty.

California lost three minor league infielders, Paul Dade, Billy Smith and Tim Nordbrook, in the draft. That allows the Angels to sign three other free agents, one more than any other club except the A's, who can sign six.

The Expos were happy with the acquisition of Cash as the Angels were about Rudi and Baylor.

The veteran second baseman said he chose Montreal because he wanted to stay in the National League and in the East Division. The Expos offered both those advantages.

Campaneris, 34, figures to move in at shortstop with Texas, allowing the Rangers to switch Toby Harrah to third base.

The two days of signings stripped the A's of four starting players and strengthened both Texas and California in the AL West Division.

Clothing Tips For Hunters, Anglers

By JIM DAUBEL

For The Associated Press

Clothing designed for the outdoor person is a hot item in the fashion world these days.

Overstuffed down coats, well tailored jackets of synthetic insulation and trimly cut rain gear are showing up more and more at sports stadiums, in shopping centers and just about any place that informal attire is appropriate.

Many of the new fashions are purchased by people concerned with appearance first and comfort second. The outdoor person who must depend on his outer clothing when the weather is at its worst will be more concerned with warmth than looks.

To many, warmth is a many layered thing. With proper dress, you can endure almost any cold in relative comfort.

At a recent fishing tournament near Columbus, stiff autumn winds pushed the chill factor far below the actual 30-degree reading. Except for my feet, I managed to keep warm more than eight hours on the water despite occasional rainshowers.

The trick was five layers of clothing designed to retain body heat and, of course, reliable rain gear to prevent chilling water to reach the skin.

From the inside out, I wore cotton underclothing, down insulated underwear, a long-sleeve flannel shirt, khaki pants, a snowmobile suit and water repellent, two-piece nylon windbreaker. I wore a hat but also made use of the parka hoods on both the snowmobile suit and rain jacket.

The important thing about dressing for outdoor activities is to tailor your clothing to the type of activity in which you participate. That may seem obvious when you contrast the needs of the skier with those of the grouse hunter, but it is surprising how many people buy one big, bulky goose down coat and think they have the cold licked under all circumstances.

Once you have the other areas covered well, don't forget the extremities. You can't appreciate how snug the rest of you is when your ears, fingers or feet are freezing.

Snowmobile boots with felt liners are excellent for keeping the feet warm. Leather boots over several pairs of wool or cotton socks are second choice except, perhaps, for insulated rubber boots. Noninsulated rubber boots are good for walking but they won't keep you warm if you stay put for any length of time in cold weather.

Hats with earflaps or wool ski bands will keep the ears warm but I have found the parka hood better, especially in brisk winds.

almost a unanimous choice of the media Wednesday to supplant Western Michigan as the Mid-American champion.

"Every coach knows games are won on the floor," said Hedric. "If not, give me the trophy and I'll go home and practice and wait for the NCAA Tournament."

Still, Hedric was one of the 10 league coaches who voted for his Redskins to grab the MAC title, something their favored football team could not do.

Miami also picked up all but two of the 74 first-place votes among the newsmen voting. Toledo was second and Central Michigan was third in both polls. Defending champion Western Michigan was fourth in the media ratings, sixth among the coaches.

The voting in both polls, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Coaches-Miami (10) 100 points, Toledo 83, Central Michigan 70, Kent State 62, Ball State 56, Western Michigan 55, Bowling Green 46, Ohio University 35, Eastern Michigan 26 and Northern Illinois 17.

Media-Miami (2) 737 points, Toledo (1) 586, Central Michigan (1) 436, Western Michigan 435, Ball State 419, Kent State 412, Ohio 355, Bowling Green 336, Eastern Michigan 186 and Northern Illinois 135.

A team-by-team rundown, with their all-game and league records from last year in parentheses:

MIAMI (18-8, 14-2)-The Redskins return 10 lettermen, including four regulars in 6-5 forwards Archie Aldridge and Chuck Goodyear, 6-6 center Randy Ayers and 6-2 guard John Shoemaker. Miami also has 6-11 North Carolina State transfer Bill Lake eligible.

Hedric believes in a revolving-door lineup, saying, "How many times do you lose games in the first half? Our practices are very alive. The players are not sleeping through our scouting reports. I used to believe starters are better than the guys on the bench. I don't anymore. Get a fresh guy in there for a tired one."

TOLEDO (18-7, 13-3)-Bobby Nichols, a player or coach in the MAC since 1949, has two returning starters, 6-8 Dave Speicher and 6-5 Ted Williams. "But three of our five are questionable players right now," said Nichols.

The Rockets shot a record 51 per cent from the floor last year and Nichols said, "It's almost wrong to say we could shoot that well again. Place to make up for it would be better rebounding."

CENTRAL MICHIGAN (12-14, 8-8)-The Chippewas have two of the league's best players, 6-9, 235-pound center Ben Poquette and 6-2 swift forward Leonard Drake. "But this season is a nightmare because we have so many people," said Coach Dick Parfitt.

He seems a bit sensitive about five transfers, one of them ex-Michigan Stater Jeff Tropp from Toledo. "We don't do anything special to get transfers. We're probably one of the most honest schools in the country."

WESTERN MICHIGAN (25-3, 15-1)-Gone from the championship Broncos are the head coach, Eldon Miller, and four regulars. Back is splendid center Tom Cutter, a 6-9 senior who averaged 12.9 points and 10.6 rebounds a season ago.

Dick Shilts takes over the coaching reins from his old boss, Eldon Miller, and said, "We're a young team making a lot of mistakes in practice. I have to bite my lip to remember we are young. I don't feel any pressure, but we haven't lost yet either."

BALL STATE (11-14, 5-11)-Cardinals have four returning regulars, same as Miami, and could be a darkhorse. The returnees are 6-9 Randy Boarden, 6-7 Pete Kuzma, 6-2 Jim Fields and 6-foot Jim Hahn, plus 6-9 transfer Robert Sims from West Virginia.

KENT STATE (12-14, 7-9)-Flashes will build around two excellent holdover scorers, 6-5 James Collins and 5-10 Cortez Brown. Coach Rex Hughes Jr. will start two freshmen, 6-7 Steve Hartings and 6-9 Burl Nesbitt, but warned: "I'm not conceding anything to anybody. I think it will be a dogfight."

OHIO (11-15, 7-9)-Bobcats started two freshmen a year ago, 6-5 Steve Skaggs and 6-2 Bucky Walden. Mid-season eligibility of transfers Tim Joyce, 6-5 forward from Tennessee, and Scott Stephens, 6-10 center from Pittsburgh, will help. "We're much quicker at all positions this year and should be much better defensively because of it," said Coach Dale Bandy.

BOWLING GREEN (12-15, 8-8)-John Weinert is the new coach and his only superstar is Tommy Harris, a 6-4 forward who averaged 19 points last winter. Ron Hammye, a 6-10 center, and Dan Hipsher, a 6-5 forward, are holdover starters. "We could be shut out this year, I think," wryly said Weinert after surveying his talent.

EASTERN MICHIGAN (7-20, 1-15)-Ray Scott, fired from the professional Detroit Pistons, takes over the coaching reins with one dependable, 6-9 center Bob Riddle. "What we're trying to do is rebuild our program around Riddle," said Scott. His biggest transition to college competition? "My budget. The next biggest transition is that players simply aren't as talented."

NORTHERN ILLINOIS (5-21, 2-14)-John McDougal tries to upgrade the Huskies after a 26-year Illinois prep coaching career. "We've got 13 lettermen, but unfortunately we don't have 13 players," said the candid McDougal. "Matthew Hicks (6-4 senior who led the MAC in scoring with a 25.0 average) may be the best player in the conference."

Top Baseball Players Make Deals

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to longterm deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employees of the A's and owner Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Rudi, who carried a million-dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like the good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him."

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when

Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the sale to Boston.

Only a strike threat by the rest of the team forced Finley to restore Rudi, Fingers and Vida Blue to active duty.

California lost three minor league infielders, Paul Dade, Billy Smith and Tim Nordbrook, in the draft. That allows the Angels to sign three other free agents, one more than any other club except the A's, who can sign six.

The Expos were as happy with the acquisition of Cash as the Angels were about Rudi and Baylor.

The veteran second baseman said he chose Montreal because he wanted to stay in the National League and in the East Division. The Expos offered both those advantages.

Campaneris, 34, figures to move in at shortstop with Texas, allowing the Rangers to switch Toby Harrah to third base.

The two days of signings stripped the A's of four starting players and strengthened both Texas and California in the AL West Division.

Clothing Tips For Hunters, Anglers

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press

Clothing designed for the outdoor person is a hot item in the fashion world these days.

Overstuffed down coats, well tailored jackets of synthetic insulation and trimly cut rain gear are showing up more and more at sports stadiums, in shopping centers and just about any place that informal attire is appropriate.

Many of the new fashions are purchased by people concerned with appearance first and comfort second. The outdoor person who must depend on his outer clothing when the weather is at its worst will be more concerned with warmth than looks.

To many, warmth is a many layered thing. With proper dress, you can endure almost any cold in relative comfort.

At a recent fishing tournament near Columbus, stiff autumn winds pushed the chill factor far below the actual 30-degree reading. Except for my feet, I managed to keep warm more than eight hours on the water despite occasional rainshowers.

The trick was five layers of clothing designed to retain body heat and, of course, reliable rain gear to prevent chilling water to reach the skin.

From the inside out, I wore cotton underclothing, down insulated underwear, a long-sleeve flannel shirt, khaki pants, a snowmobile suit and water repellent, two-piece nylon windbreaker. I wore a hat but also made use of the parka hoods on both the snowmobile suit and rain jacket.

The important thing about dressing for outdoor activities is to tailor your clothing to the type of activity in which you participate. That may seem obvious when you contrast the needs of the skier with those of the grouse hunter, but it is surprising how many people buy one big, bulky goose down coat and think they have the cold licked under all circumstances.

Once you have the other areas covered well, don't forget the extremities. You can't appreciate how snug the rest of you is when your ears, fingers or feet are freezing.

Snowmobile boots with felt liners are excellent for keeping the feet warm. Leather boots over several pairs of wool or cotton socks are second choice except, perhaps, for insulated rubber boots. Noninsulated rubber boots are good for walking but they won't keep you warm if you stay put for any length of time in cold weather.

Hats with earflaps or wool ski bands will keep the ears warm but I have found the parka hood better, especially in brisk winds.

Soybean Acreage May Near Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — If current prices hold up, farmers next spring may plant a near record acreage of soybeans which could help replenish the dwindling U.S. stockpile, according to an Agriculture Department analyst.

George W. Kromer, a fats and oils specialist in USDA's Economic Research Service, said Wednesday that the outlook now is for continued high prices. He said a much larger 1977 soybean crop will be needed to head off a continued tight supply situation a year from now.

Speaking at the department's annual outlook conference, Kromer said that if the present price advantage that soybeans hold over corn continues into spring, "farmers likely will expand soybean acreage in 1977, possibly a tenth above this year's 50 million acres."

That could mean a planted soybean acreage of around 55 million acres, close to the record plantings in 1973 of 56.7 million acres. At that time, farmers greatly expanded soybeans because of high market prices in 1972, another period of dwindling reserves. The 1973 crop was a record of nearly 1.55 billion bushels and added significantly to a buildup in soybean stockpiles. Output dropped to about 1.2 billion bushels in 1974 after farmers cut plantings to 53.5 million acres.

There was an increase in plantings in 1975 to 54.6 million acres and the crop last year was a near-record of 1.52 billion bushels. This was on top of a soybean "carryover" reserve of 185 million bushels at the start of the new marketing year on Sept. 1, 1975, and it looked as if soybean producers were headed for hard times as prices declined.

Consequently, last spring farmers cut soybean plantings to 50.3 million acres, the smallest in four years, and the 1976 crop turned out at about 1.25 million acres, the smallest in four years, and the 1976 crop turned out at about 1.25 billion bushels.

But demand has risen sharply. Now, USDA says, the stockpile left over by the time the 1977 crop is ready for market next Sept. 1 may be down to 85 million bushels or less from 244 million last Sept. 1.

I am still trying to figure out what happened to last week. It surely came as a real shock to discover it was gone and I didn't know where. Fact is, I have been a bit unglued at the seams ever since but then I have never been wrapped too tight to start with.

For those who may have missed what I had to offer last week in the Herald I want to repeat the special event for this coming Sunday to be held at Legion Hall. An open house from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. will honor the 90th birthday of Mrs. Lettie Vance. Friends and relatives are invited to celebrate with Mrs. Vance and her family on this happy occasion. Mrs. Vance, the widow of John Vance, is the mother of 4 daughters and 2 sons, grandmother to 7 grandchildren and great-grandmother to 15. Within our local Pickaway County area resides 2 sons, Carlos and Millard, 2 granddaughters Garnetta (Mrs. William) Coleman, Wanda (Mrs. James) Fosnaugh and great grandchildren Willa, Billy and Chad Coleman, Linda and Jameson Fosnaugh. Mrs. Vance lived for many years here in our locale before she left here to make her home at 935 Center St., Wheelersburg, Ohio 45694. We would urge all readers to delight her with a birthday greeting and especially so if unable to attend the birthday open house for a truly lovely lady.

Just beginning his trek toward a 90th birthday is young Davy Commeneas who was all of five years old on Nov. 10. His mommy Candy (Mrs. Bill) Commeneas pleased him with a birthday party with lots of Snoopy and Peanuts used as a theme. All the little guests enjoyed giving a gift to Davy and they equally enjoyed having a gift of their own to unwrap. Prize winners in the games and contests that make a party so much fun were Lance Gibson, Bobby Harmon, and Joy Ann Rhoades. Those present to wish Davy many more happy birthdays were Marcia Atwood, Jason Harmon, Dale Thomas, Kenney Rice, Steven and Anthony Figaliao, Kara Wolfe and the prize winners.

Reaching that stupendous, tremendous 16th birthday was our favorite Lollipop Faith Ann Picklesimer. Parents Charley and Esther Picklesimer had family members and special friends in for dinner to mark the "blessed event". Guests were Brad and Donna Thompson, Marci and J. T., Mike Stauffer and from Chillicothe Jack Brandman. Other recent visitors at the Picklesimer home to wish Faith Ann best wishes and also to spend time with Bessie Miller have been Dave and Janet Lovett and T.D. from The Plains, Jean (Mrs. Dick) Markel, and Mindy of Chillicothe. Bessie is not at all well but she does get pleasure from brief visits and especially from cards.

Ron Bush and sons Tim and Mike are "batching" it for a couple of weeks while the lady of the household, Marilyn, is delighting in the Arizona atmosphere and having a nice time with her sister and brother-in-law.

Doyen and Kathleen Bode of Adelphi pop in every now and then at the home of their daughter Marabel Drummond and her family — hubby David, daughters Connie, Sandee and Joy Lynne.

Dale "Butch" and Mary Ann Russell and Butch's mother Martha "Kate" Russell drove down to Kentucky a couple week ends ago and had a great time visiting with Don Russell and his family. Meanwhile back in these parts Tina, Rita and Pete Russell were keeping grandparents Herschel and Mae Litter entertained.

Our very special friend Pete Cochenour is improving "real well" from his recent surgery at Ross County Medical Center. He was discharged to his home last Tuesday.

The Cochenours daughter Valli (Mrs. Bill) Long of Daartown was here for several days during her dad's hospitalization which was a great comfort to her mother Pearl. Also here for a few days to lend a helping hand was Pearl's brother Roy Brayshaw from Monaca, Penn.

Mae Litter was hostess for her canasta club and prizes went to Colleen Justice, high; Eileen Easterday, traveling; Dorothy Carle, low and soon to be a newlywed Margene Looney won door prize. As usual, Mae's refreshment table would have put a Roman banquet to shame. Oh, how I need strength to resist.

John and Edna West have returned home after being with daughter Jeannette and her family which is made up of hubby Jack Lovensheimer and children Lisa, Craig and Brian. The Lovensheimers are residents of Florence, S.C.

Johnny Long, Westfall senior son of Carl and Ruth Long, accompanied Dr. and Mrs. William Evans and family to Wallingford, Conn. recently when they visited son Bill who is a student at Choate. Bill is a 1976 Westfall graduate and a fellow football player with John.

SOS

SOS can be translated into "Save our Schoolground" and also "Share of the Square" Either way it is a plea for all interested persons to rally to the cause of purchasing the former Williamsport school grounds as a community center. In the future the school grounds will be referred to as Community Square. As has been stated before the land has been offered to the village and township for hte purchase price of $20,000. This amount is to be paid to the Westfall Board of Education by May 1, 1977 which is something like six months from now so there can be no lagging and dragging.

The steering committee will begin a campaign to raise the needed funds and one way of doing this is to offer a "Share of the Square". Each share is valued at $10. and can be purchased in multiples of 10. Advance shares can now be purchased by making checks payable to Community Square Corp. and giving to a committee member or mailing to Box 92 Williamsport, Ohio 43164. In return the purchaser will receive a printed share as a receipt.

It is hoped that everyone in the community as well as others with a Williamsport interest will take pride in being a part of the project. As additional plans develop the committee will keep the populace well informed. Several organizations have already made pledges and at the initial meeting on discussion of the offer Oesterle's Inc. generously pledged $500 so this surely must be encouraging.

I would say that one of the major contributing factors to my discomobulation is being under the pressure of having to complete my Christmas shopping by Dec. 10. This is extremely difficult for me to swing with, since I am one of those who never gets in the spirit of the whole thing until just a few days before. The reason for the earliness is because on the 10th my mother Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe and I will be in Athens to pick up daughter Becki and a friend Karla Frye (Zanesville) as they finish classes for the fall term and off to Florida we will go. We plan to return at Christmas time. The trip is Christmas gift for mother and Becki (Sisbug). Now watch it snow knee deep on the 9th and goof up all our plans. Come to think of it the snow would have to reach a little higher on the anatomy before I chickened out. Our plans are to travel down the West Virginia, Virginia, Carolinas route and return by way of Macon, Georgia where we will have the joy of being with 102 years old grandma Phoebe Smiley and Ruth "Sweetpea" Shipe.

We just had a letter from Sweetpea and she writes that grandma Smiley is improved from a health disturbance she was suffering with earlier. Getting to have some time with our adored neighbor of nearly 20 years will be a wonderful Christmas gift in my book. No one knows how much we truly miss her.

We are eagerly awaiting word from Gwinn and Leroy Lane as to where their son Doug will be stationed for his initial army training. Doug entered the service this week so it will be a few days before his address will be known. We are quite found of irrepressible Doug and wish him well in his new endeavor.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Wrinkles from smiles are creases worthwhile.

Advance shares can now be purchased by making checks payable to Community Square Corp. and giving to a committee member or mailing to Box 92 Williamsport, Ohio 43164. In return the purchaser will receive a printed share as a receipt.

It is hoped that everyone in the community as well as others with a Williamsport interest will take pride in being a part of the project. As additional plans develop the committee will keep the populace well informed. Several organizations have already made pledges and at the initial meeting on discussion of the offer Oesterle's Inc. generously pledged $500 so this surely must be encouraging.

I would say that one of the major contributing factors to my discomobulation is being under the pressure of having to complete my Christmas shopping by Dec. 10. This is extremely difficult for me to swing with, since I am one of those who never gets in the spirit of the whole thing until just a few days before. The reason for the earliness is because on the 10th my mother Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe and I will be in Athens to pick up daughter Becki and a friend Karla Frye (Zanesville) as they finish classes for the fall term and off to Florida we will go. We plan to return at Christmas time. The trip is Christmas gift for mother and Becki (Sisbug). Now watch it snow knee deep on the 9th and goof up all our plans. Come to think of it the snow would have to reach a little higher on the anatomy before I chickened out. Our plans are to travel down the West Virginia, Virginia, Carolinas route and return by way of Macon, Georgia where we will have the joy of being with 102 years old grandma Phoebe Smiley and Ruth "Sweetpea" Shipe.

We just had a letter from Sweetpea and she writes that grandma Smiley is improved from a health disturbance she was suffering with earlier. Getting to have some time with our adored neighbor of nearly 20 years will be a wonderful Christmas gift in my book. No one knows how much we truly miss her.

We are eagerly awaiting word from Gwinn and Leroy Lane as to where their son Doug will be stationed for his initial army training. Doug entered the service this week so it will be a few days before his address will be known. We are quite found of irrepressible Doug and wish him well in his new endeavor.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Wrinkles from smiles are creases worthwhile.

Business Building

A very successful businessman once advised... "the three basic requirements for selecting a business property are:
1. LOCATION!
2. LOCATION!
3. LOCATION!"

At 112 West Main Street... this building certainly qualifies... for a downtown business location... or, for professional offices. The street level room is now occupied by Ward's Catalog Store, operated by Mr. & Mrs. Richard Moon, who are interested in discussing the possibility of remaining in this location with an interested buyer. Mi-Lady's Beauty Shop has occupied the second floor for many years and would, no doubt, like to remain there.

If you want a downtown location, for your own use or for an investment, this property, priced at $27,500.00, warrants your immediate attention and inspection by calling.

Business Building

A very successful businessman once advised... "the three basic requirements for selecting a business property are:

1. LOCATION! 2. LOCATION! 3. LOCATION!

At 112 West Main Street... this building certainly qualifies... for a downtown business location... or, for professional offices. The street level room is now occupied by Ward's Catalog Store, operated by Mr. & Mrs. Richard Moon, who are interested in discussing the possibility of remaining in this location with an interested buyer. Mi-Lady's Beauty Shop has occupied the second floor for many years and would, no doubt, like to remain there.

If you want a downtown location, for your own use or for an investment, this property, priced at $27,500.00, warrants your immediate attention and inspection by calling.

Pistons Turn Back
New Orleans, 118-95

By The Associated Press
M.L. Carr, a second-year pro from Guilford College, scored a career-high 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, helping the Detroit Pistons to their seventh straight National Basketball Association victory, a 118-95 clubbing of Maravich's New Orleans Jazz Wednesday night.

In other NBA games, the Indiana Pacers surprised the Philadelphia 76ers 123-117, the Denver Nuggets routed the New York Nets 112-78, the Houston Rockets edged the Buffalo Braves 120-114 in overtime, the Boston Celtics beat the Atlanta Hawks 104-91, the Washington Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 111-97, the Phoenix Suns beat the Milwaukee Bucks 103-95 and the Seattle SuperSonics stopped the Cleveland Cavaliers 92-78.

Pacers 123, 76ers 117
Billy Knight scored 30 points and Wil Jones 20 as the Pacers snapped a six-game losing streak by stunning the 76ers in Philadelphia. Indiana scored 12 consecutive points in the first quarter and took a lead it never gave up.

Nuggets 112, Nets 78

Denver raised its record to 10-1, best in the NBA, by over-running the Nets in a matchup of last year's ABA playoff finalists. The Nets, who finished with a .296 shooting percentage, trailed by just four points after one quarter but were outscored 32-16 in the second period, when they sank just three of 25 field goal attempts.

Rockets 120, Braves 114

Houston erased a 17-point second-quarter deficit, blew a six-point lead in the closing 2½ minutes of regulation play, then came on to outscore Buffalo 16-10 in overtime. Buffalo's Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 27 points, but his desperation, half-court basket at the buzzer was ruled too late.

Celtics 104, Hawks 91

Boston ran off 16 points in a row during the second period and went on to hand Atlanta its 27th consecutive loss on the road. Boston's Charlie Scott and John Havlicek and Atlanta rookie center Tom Barker each scored 20 points.

Bullets 111, Knicks 97

Phil Chenier scored 30 points and Len Robinson added 27 points and a career-high 20 rebounds as Washington coasted past the Knicks. Robinson and Elvin Hayes combined for 22 points in the third period as the Bullets broke the game open by outscoring New York 36-26.

Suns 103, Bucks 95

Paul Westphal, used sparingly because of a knee injury, scored 12 points in the fourth quarter as the Suns beat the Bucks. Dick Van Arsdale, who hit all seven of his field goal tries in the first half, topped Phoenix with 19 points and Westphal finished with 18.

Sonics 92, Cavaliers 78

Bruce Seals scored 21 points and Fred Brown added 16 as Seattle posted its 24th consecutive victory at home and snapped Cleveland's threegame winning streak. The Sonics led by 26 points midway through the final period.

New England

Whalers Defeat
Birmingham

By The Associated Press
The New England Whalers took a while to get used to home surroundings after being on the road for more than two weeks.

But when they felt comfortable Wednesday night, their fans at Hartford, Conn. saw them erupt for four goals in the final period and a World Hockey Association 6-4 victory over the Birmingham Bulls.

Birmingham had taken an early 3-1 lead. But New England won, 5-4.

Norm Ferguson scored twice, leading the San Diego Mariners to a 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers in the only other WHA game Wednesday night.

Soviet Atom Survival Plan Copied

SEATTLE (AP) — The Boeing Co. says it has tapped the Soviet Union's civil defense program to develop a system to protect its industrial machinery from a thermonuclear attack and has tested the plan by using Soviet defense manuals.

The protection method involves supporting machines and equipment on polyurethane foam and covering them at the first sign of attack with plastic foam, metal chips, balsa wood, dirt or sandbags.

Boeing estimates that all the nation's industrial machinery could be partially protected for between $1.2 billion and $1.5 billion.

Boeing itself could resume airplane production 12 weeks after a nuclear attack if its machinery is protected in the Soviet manner, the report said.

T.K. Jones, Boeing's program and product evaluation manager, says in his report that the protection method works if industrial plants have 48 hours to prepare for an attack. However, the company said it had not yet found a way to protect the workers who would have to implement the protective measures.

The report was prepared for the U.S. Joint Committee on Defense Production. Jones is to testify today at the committee's opening hearings in Washington, D.C., on proposals for protecting critical U.S. industries against a Soviet nuclear attack.

George Weiss, one of two Boeing representatives in Washington, said Tuesday that the aerospace firm and federal government used conventional explosives to test the theory of the Soviet Union's civil defense program that machinery can be protected through use of plastic foam, metal chips, balsa wood and dirt or sandbags.

Weiss said tests were conducted using Soviet civil defense manuals as a guide. He said he did not know how the company obtained the manuals. He said they are "commonly available inside Russia."

Jones criticized "the widespread notion that nuclear war would be the end of all mankind. ..." But he said if the Soviets execute the defense plan while the United States does not, "the consequences to the United States of escalation to nuclear war would be disastrous while consequences might be tolerable to the Soviet Union."

He said the Soviet Union could recover in "no more than 2 to 4 years," while the United States would need 12 years to recover.

Abortions
Rejected

CLEVELAND (AP) — More unwed mothers are rejecting abortions as attitudes about early pregnancy change, social workers have been told in the continuing Ohio Welfare Conference here.

"Ten years ago, 90 per cent of the girls you saw had decided that adoption was the answer for their babies," Bea Pulver, director of intake for Florence Crittenton Services in Toledo, told a workshop Tuesday.

"Now 90 per cent of them want to keep their children," she said.

But she added that she thinks "the word is getting out that it isn't all that great to be young, have a baby and be single."

Others told the workshop that nearly 300,000 of the American teen-age girls who became pregnant out of wedlock last year turned to abortion. The remaining 700,000 gave birth to their children.

And their cries for help, said Mary Butcher, coordinator of the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department's Service to Young Families, may not come for 12 or 18 months.

"We have to keep an open door, to listen to those cries," she said.

Women Cadets
Needling Males

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Point's first crop of women cadets is "putting a needle into male hides, and causing the men to work harder," the military academy's superintendent says.

Lt. Gen. Sidney Berry said women cadets are doing better than the men in the classroom but are dropping out more frequently for other reasons.

At the same time, the academy's superintendent said women cadets suffered a higher injury rate during field training than male cadets. He did not provide figures on injuries, which he said included "stress fractures" in lower legs.

WILLOWICK, Ohio (AP) — The lure of sunken treasure has brought many men cold, watery deaths, but there still remain those who assume the risk for the sake of adventure and hidden fortune.

A Willowick father and son scuba diving team has as a quest a Canadian ship that sailed from New York State 170 years ago carrying more than $2 million in gold bars.

Frank Pertz, 49, and his son Don, 24, have researched Cleveland library records for clues of the ship's whereabouts.

The name of the ship remains a mystery, but it last was seen by a lighthouse keeper in Erie, Pa. The ship is believed to have been caught in a violent storm and now rests at the bottom of Lake Erie.

"They were going to start a bank with what was on that ship," the elder Pertz says.

His search for the wreck began three years ago, and he is convinced other scuba divers also are seeking it. He also acknowledges that even once it is found, disposition of the treasure probably would be determined by a maritime court.

But the real adventure is not so much in the finding but in the searching, his son believes.

"Everytime you dive, you're going into a different situation—you learn something new," the younger Pertz says. "I just like being in the water."

Scuba diving in Lake Erie is an experience in itself, both men say, explaining that it is completely dark 70 feet down because of pollution, silt and algae.

"You can actually swim into the loose bottom and not even know it," Don says.

When the Pertz aren't diving in Lake Erie, they are searching for sunken treasure off the Florida Keys or in the Gulf of Mexico.

About seven years ago, they were snorkeling from a boat off the Keys when a barracuda began chasing Don.

"I've never seen so many teeth in my life," he says, claiming to have jumped back into the boat without touching the sides.

He acknowledges that diving can be dangerous, but he adds that "it's just like anything else: you get scared, but that's no reason to quit."

"The nice thing about diving is that you never know what you'll see," he reasons.

And if he winds up with a share of the $2 million, he adds, it will be invested in a search for something else.

HIS OTHER WORK — Lt. Gov. Rudy Perpich does some dental work on a patient in his Hibbing, Minn., office. Perpich will become Governor of Minnesota when Gov. Wendell Anderson is appointed to the Senate seat vacated by vice-president elect Walter Mondale.

Pistons Turn Back
New Orleans, 118-95

By The Associated Press
M.L. Carr, a second-year pro from Guilford College, scored a career-high 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, helping the Detroit Pistons to their seventh straight National Basketball Association victory, a 118-95 clubbing of Maravich's New Orleans Jazz Wednesday night.

In other NBA games, the Indiana Pacers surprised the Philadelphia 76ers 123-117, the Denver Nuggets routed the New York Nets 112-78, the Houston Rockets edged the Buffalo Braves 120-114 in overtime, the Boston Celtics beat the Atlanta Hawks 104-91, the Washington Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 111-97, the Phoenix Suns beat the Milwaukee Bucks 103-95 and the Seattle SuperSonics stopped the Cleveland Cavaliers 92-78.

Pacers 123, 76ers 117

Billy Knight scored 30 points and Wil Jones 20 as the Pacers snapped a six-game losing streak by stunning the 76ers in Philadelphia. Indiana scored 12 consecutive points in the first quarter and took a lead it never gave up.

Nuggets 112, Nets 78

Denver raised its record to 10-1, best in the NBA, by over-running the Nets in a matchup of last year's ABA playoff finalists. The Nets, who finished with a .296 shooting percentage, trailed by just four points after one quarter but were outscored 32-16 in the second period, when they sank just three of 25 field goal attempts.

Rockets 120, Braves 114

Houston erased a 17-point second-quarter deficit, blew a six-point lead in the closing 2½ minutes of regulation play, then came on to out-score Buffalo 16-10 in overtime. Buffalo's Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 27 points, but his desperation, half-court basket at the buzzer was ruled too late.

Celtics 104, Hawks 91

Boston ran off 16 points in a row during the second period and went on to hand Atlanta its 27th consecutive loss on the road. Boston's Charlie Scott and John Havlicek and Atlanta rookie center Tom Barker each scored 20 points.

Bullets 111, Knicks 97

Phil Chenier scored 30 points and Len Robinson added 27 points and a career-high 20 rebounds as Washington coasted past the Knicks. Robinson and Elvin Hayes combined for 22 points in the third period as the Bullets broke the game open by outscoring New York 36-26.

Suns 103, Bucks 95

Paul Westphal, used sparingly because of a knee injury, scored 12 points in the fourth quarter as the Suns beat the Bucks. Dick Van Arsdale, who hit all seven of his field goal tries in the first half, topped Phoenix with 19 points and Westphal finished with 18.

Sonics 92, Cavaliers 78

Bruce Seals scored 21 points and Fred Brown added 16 as Seattle posted its 24th consecutive victory at home and snapped Cleveland's threegame winning streak. The Sonics led by 26 points midway through the final period.

New England

Whalers Defeat
Birmingham

By The Associated Press
The New England Whalers took a while to get used to home surroundings after being on the road for more than two weeks.

But when they felt comfortable Wednesday night, their fans at Hartford, Conn. saw them erupt for four goals in the final period and a World Hockey Association 6-4 victory over the Birmingham Bulls.

Birmingham had taken an early 3-1 lead. But New England won, 5-4.

Norm Ferguson scored twice, leading the San Diego Mariners to a 4-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers in the only other WHA game Wednesday night.

Soviet Atom Survival Plan Copied

SEATTLE (AP) — The Boeing Co. says it has tapped the Soviet Union's civil defense program to develop a system to protect its industrial machinery from a thermonuclear attack and has tested the plan by using Soviet defense manuals.

The protection method involves supporting machines and equipment on polyurethane foam and covering them at the first sign of attack with plastic foam, metal chips, balsa wood, dirt or sandbags.

Boeing estimates that all the nation's industrial machinery could be partially protected for between $1.2 billion and $1.5 billion.

Boeing itself could resume airplane production 12 weeks after a nuclear attack if its machinery is protected in the Soviet manner, the report said.

T.K. Jones, Boeing's program and product evaluation manager, says in his report that the protection method works if industrial plants have 48 hours to prepare for an attack. However, the company said it had not yet found a way to protect the workers who would have to implement the protective measures.

The report was prepared for the U.S. Joint Committee on Defense Production. Jones is to testify today at the committee's opening hearings in Washington, D.C., on proposals for protecting critical U.S. industries against a Soviet nuclear attack.

George Weiss, one of two Boeing representatives in Washington, said Tuesday that the aerospace firm and federal government used conventional explosives to test the theory of the Soviet Union's civil defense program that machinery can be protected through use of plastic foam, metal chips, balsa wood and dirt or sandbags.

Weiss said tests were conducted using Soviet civil defense manuals as a guide. He said he did not know how the company obtained the manuals. He said they are "commonly available inside Russia."

Jones criticized "the widespread notion that nuclear war would be the end of all mankind. ..." But he said if the Soviets execute the defense plan while the United States does not, "the consequences to the United States of escalation to nuclear war would be disastrous while consequences might be tolerable to the Soviet Union."

He said the Soviet Union could recover in "no more than 2 to 4 years," while the United States would need 12 years to recover.

Rejected

CLEVELAND (AP) — More unwed mothers are rejecting abortions as attitudes about early pregnancy change, social workers have been told in the continuing Ohio Welfare Conference here.

"Now 90 per cent of them want to keep their children," she said. But she added that she thinks "the word is getting out that it isn't all that great to be young, have a baby and be single."

Others told the workshop that nearly 300,000 of the American teen-age girls who became pregnant out of wedlock last year turned to abortion. The remaining 700,000 gave birth to their children.

And their cries for help, said Mary Butcher, coordinator of the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department's Service to Young Families, may not come for 12 or 18 months.

"We have to keep an open door, to listen to those cries," she said.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable, schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle an optimistic outlook toward the future.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. They will, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Job matters may prove more strenuous than usual, but some delightful news from an old friend will make your day.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Not a good day for finances. There's a tendency to "throw good money after bad." Avoid! Rather, cut losses ruthlessly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Do not let a personal disappointment mar your overall perspective. Continue to aim for high goals. Your adeptness, know-how and intuition should be potent now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): If pressed for time, you may overlook vitally important details. Be alert to this, since carelessness could cause needless errors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stellar influences should inspire top-flight efforts. Especially favored: educational projects, family concerns, community interests, health programs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Uranus influences not too friendly. Avoid getting in over your head — especially where you happen to be on unfamiliar ground.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Excellent Neptune influences! New trends may result in an agreement, where there was only opposition before. Do make the most of such fine opportunity.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by Scorpio, Sign of magnetism and well-rounded capability. You are a sure-footed and powerful leader and, when necessary, a loyal follower. You are inclined, however, to go to extremes — stubborn and inflexible at one moment, gracious and yielding at another. The well-developed of this Sign are fighters for principles and for the underdog, and relish challenges and competition. Extremely versatile, there are many fields in which you could succeed — most notably in the business world, the law, science, statesmanship, the judiciary or the theater. LOS ANGELES (AP) — Public television tonight is airing an original drama, "Liza's Pioneer Diary," which shows the life of a young Kentucky woman moving westward in 1848.

As fate would have it, Nell Cox, the film's producer, director and writer, is doing a little westward pioneering of her own. After 17 years of working in New York, she's moving here to set up shop.

Ms. Cox, a Frankfort, Ky., native who makes documentaries and has made industrial films, grinned when reminded that certain types on the East Coast often claim Los Angeles life is deadly, that the sun here has been known to turn good brains to mush.

"That's what I've heard," she said. "I can hardly wait to see what happens. They say, 'People out there don't even read the New York Times.'"

But that isn't a reason to recommend against moving here, she said, also dismissing another New York claim that the California life is too relaxed to keep the creative juices bubbling.

"That's as though getting a cardiac arrest before you're 40 is some kind of virtue," she said.

An attractive, soft-spoken woman, she said she's moving here for two related reasons, one being that documentary and producing work seems to have dried up in Fun City.

The other factor is that filmmaker Cox wants to carve out a new career doing only entertainment films — both for TV and theatrical release — and here is where the action is.

"Sure, the theater's in New York, but not movies and television," says Ms. Cox, 39, who got the filmmaking bug from what folks who call flicks the cinema have dubbed the "New Wave" of French films that began rolling in during the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Her "Pioneer Diary" tonight is part of Los Angeles station KCET's new "Visions" series of original dramas for television.

She was asked if the film — her first feature-length movie — marks the start of her effort to get a foothold in writing and directing in the Los Angeles branch of American film.

"Yes, I think that (it is)," replied Ms. Cox, whose previous work has ranged from a study of cooks toiling in a plush New York restaurant to a look at various persons involved in a murder trial.

"The notion behind the series — or at least a big part of it — was that commercial television really doesn't encourage new drama, new writers," she said.

"So noncommercial television says, 'Okay, let's see if we can inject some new blood into the medium for the commercial networks.'"

"So in a way, I hope that works for me, because that's what I'd like to do. And this could be a real transition for me."

"It sure is the direction in which I want to go, and it's been a long, hard time for me getting a transitional film to fit into it."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable, schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle an optimistic outlook toward the future.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. They will, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Job matters may prove more strenuous than usual, but some delightful news from an old friend will make your day.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Not a good day for finances. There's a tendency to "throw good money after bad." Avoid! Rather, cut losses ruthlessly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Do not let a personal disappointment mar your overall perspective. Continue to aim for high goals. Your adeptness, know-how and intuition should be potent now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): If pressed for time, you may overlook vitally important details. Be alert to this, since carelessness could cause needless errors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stellar influences should inspire top-flight efforts. Especially favored: educational projects, family concerns, community interests, health programs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Uranus influences not too friendly. Avoid getting in over your head - especially where you happen to be on unfamiliar ground.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Excellent Neptune influences! New trends may result in an agreement, where there was only opposition before. Do make the most of such fine opportunity.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by Scorpio. Sign of magnetism and well-rounded capability. You are a sure-footed and powerful leader and, when necessary, a loyal follower. You are inclined, however, to go to extremes - stubborn and inflexible at one moment, gracious and yielding at another. The well-developed of this Sign are fighters for principles and for the underdog, and relish challenges and competition. Extremely versatile, there are many fields in which you could succeed - most notably in the business world, the law, science, statesmanship, the judiciary or the theater. Birthdate of: Ferdinand de Lesseps, builder of the Suez Canal; King Charles I, of England; Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister of India; Dick Cavett, TV personality.

Skin diving, one of the fastest growing sports in the United States, got its start shortly after World War II.

Views On Tiger Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Public television tonight is airing an original drama, "Liza's Pioneer Diary," which shows the life of a young Kentucky woman moving westward in 1848.

As fate would have it, Nell Cox, the film's producer, director and writer, is doing a little westward pioneering of her own. After 17 years of working in New York, she's moving here to set up shop.

Ms. Cox, a Frankfort, Ky., native who makes documentaries and has made industrial films, grinned when reminded that certain types on the East Coast often claim Los Angeles life is deadly, that the sun here has been known to turn good brains to mush.

"That's what I've heard," she said. "I can hardly wait to see what happens. They say, 'People out there don't even read the New York Times.'"

But that isn't a reason to recommend against moving here, she said, also dismissing another New York claim that the California life is too relaxed to keep the creative juices bubbling. "That's as though getting a cardiac arrest before you're 40 is some kind of virtue," she said.

An attractive, soft-spoken woman, she said she's moving here for two related reasons, one being that documentary and producing work seems to have dried up in Fun City.

The other factor is that filmmaker Cox wants to carve out a new career doing only entertainment films - both for TV and theatrical release - and here is where the action is.

"Sure, the theater's in New York, but not movies and television," says Ms. Cox, 39, who got the filmmaking bug from what folks who call flicks the cinema have dubbed the "New Wave" of French films that began rolling in during the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Her "Pioneer Diary" tonight is part of Los Angeles station KCET's new "Visions" series of original dramas for television.

She was asked if the film - her first feature-length movie - marks the start of her effort to get a foothold in writing and directing in the Los Angeles branch of American film.

"Yes, I think that (it is)," replied Ms. Cox, whose previous work has ranged from a study of cooks toiling in a plush New York restaurant to a look at various persons involved in a murder trial.

"The notion behind the series - or at least a big part of it - was that commercial television really doesn't encourage new drama, new writers," she said.

"So noncommercial television says, 'Okay, let's see if we can inject some new blood into the medium for the commercial networks.'"

"So in a way, I hope that works for me, because that's what I'd like to do. And this could be a real transition for me."

"It sure is the direction in which I want to go, and it's been a long, hard time for me getting a transitional film to fit into it."

Seven People Arraigned In Common Pleas Court

Seven people entered not guilty pleas during arraignments in Common Pleas Court Wednesday and six other cases were heard by Judge William Ammer.

In action initiated by the Grand Jury Nov. 5, Geraldine Compton, 6152 Orchard Lane, Groveport; Jeffrey D. Dyer, 1660 Brown Road, Columbus; Donald Allen Wenger Jr., 7414 London Road, Derby; Harold Haddox, 531 Gumm Place; Florence M. Williams, Route 1, Chillicothe; William Dennis Clemons, 5552 Dawn Drive, Darbydale; and Jerry Lynn Lewis, 143 E. Third Ave., Columbus, were given trial dates following the arraignments.

Ms. Compton, who pleaded not guilty to a grand theft charge, will have her case heard by a jury Jan. 21.

She is charged with receiving $850 in excess Aid to Dependent Children payments by deception beginning Oct. 1, 1975.

Jury trial for Dyer, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of trafficking in marijuana, is set for Dec. 22.

Dyer is charged with unlawfully and knowingly selling or giving away marijuana on Oct. 8.

Jury trial for Wenger, who is charged with vandalism, is scheduled Dec. 28.

He was charged Oct. 3 with allegedly causing serious physical harm to windows of the United States Post Office in Derby. Damage was estimated at over $150.

Jury trial for Haddox, who is charged with felonious assault, is scheduled for Dec. 20.

He was charged Sept. 20 with knowingly causing serious physical harm to Lois Haddox.

Ms. Williams, charged with forgery, will have a jury trial Jan. 24.

On Oct. 18, she was charged with forgery.

Jury trial for Clemons, who is charged with breaking and entering, vandalism, and two counts of petit theft, will be Jan. 6.

On Sept. 22, Clemons is charged with allegedly entering the premises of the Sperry New Holland Company, Route 23 South, with the intent to commit theft and unlawfully taking money and a clock radio. On the same date, he is charged with taking less than $150 cash from the Goodchild Inc. and causing serious physical harm to a Coca-Cola vending machine.

Lewis' jury trial has been scheduled Jan. 6.

He is charged with breaking and entering, vandalism and two counts of petit theft as an accomplice to Clemons.

Terry Lee Ratcliff, 23, Route 5, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory after he changed his plea to guilty on charges of breaking and entering and grand theft.

Judge Ammer imposed concurrent six month to five year terms on both charges.

Ratcliff was charged Sept. 28 with breaking into the Westfall High School and taking money and personal property from the building.

Keith Morris, 22, 703 Broadway St., Washington C.H., was ordered jailed and placed under continued probation after he admitted violating terms of earlier probation imposed by Judge Ammer.

Morris, charged with criminal damaging and grand theft stemming from the July 16 theft of a police radio from the car of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson, pleaded guilty on both charges and was given probation for three years.

However, Morris violated terms of the probation by committing another criminal act in Fayette County, possessing a marijuana cigarette, consuming intoxicating liquor, and leaving Fayette County without permission.

Judge Ammer ordered him jailed until he can be transferred to a drug treatment center in Columbus for a 90-day period of in-patient treatment.

Sherrel D. Battles, 40, 508 W. 2nd Street, Chillicothe, was given three years probation after pleading guilty to receiving stolen property.

Judge Ammer suspended a six month to five year term in the Ohio Penitentiary and ordered probation if Ms. Battles pays the $250 fine he imposed, and maintains receipts for all items over $15 other than food obtained while on probation.

She was charged July 30 with receiving personal property including a micro-wave oven, television set, sweeper, clothes, and light bulbs which had been taken from Buckeye Mart and knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that they had been stolen. All the items were recovered.

Mary E. Battles, 38, 508 W. 2nd Street, Chillicothe, who was arrested with Sherrel Battles and received an identical sentence, was also given probation for three years with the same terms.

A six month to five year jail term in the Mansfield Reformatory imposed Oct. 4 against Terry Francis Lambert, 22, 10937 Mattville Road, Orient, was suspended by Judge Ammer and Lambert was placed on probation for three years.

During that time, he must make restitution as to the cost of the drug, not have any narcotic drug without a prescription, and serve a 45-day jail term in the Pickaway County Jail.

Lambert was charged June 24 with selling marijuana.

A six month to five year term in the Mansfield Reformatory for Women imposed against Deborah J. Havens, 19, 11590 Poplar Street, Ashville, was suspended and she was placed on probation for three years.

Ms. Havens, charged May 25 with selling a narcotic drug, pleaded guilty Oct. 12.

During her probation, she must make restitution for the cost of the drug, not have or use any narcotic drug without a prescription, and serve a 45-day jail term in the Pickaway County Jail.

The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Richard L. Gerhardt in all of the cases.

Knife-Point Robbery

A Frankfort man, threatened with a knife by three men early Thursday morning, was robbed of about $200 worth of merchandise including $6 cash.

Craig Clark, 18, Frankfort, was uninjured during the robbery, although he was bound with his shoestrings and left in the vehicle under threats of violence.

The incident, which occurred 4:20 a.m. Thursday in the southbound rest stop on Route 23, is being investigated by Ohio State Highway Patrol Trooper R.L. Daub.

Apparently, three men were involved in the robbery.

Clark, driving a grain truck, parked at the rest stop and was asleep in the cab when he was awakened by two of the men, who apparently entered the truck cab.

After asking directions to Columbus, one of the men threatened Clark with a knife.

Clark, under threats of harm, surrendered his cash, watch, ring, tools and tool box, coats, and keys. He was ordered to lie on the floor of the cab and was bound with shoestrings from his shoes.

The thieves, after ripping wires from under the dashboard of the vehicle, threatened Clark with a gun and ordered him to remain silent until they fled from the area.

Post Office Reps Discuss Local Problems

By ANDI PORTER
Herald Staff Writer

The Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce had a luncheon meeting with representatives from the Circleville post office and concerned business leaders to discuss local post office operations.

Larry Pritchard, acting supervisor of the Circleville office, and LaRue Horsley, Washington C.H. Postmaster, were present to hear complaints and discuss solutions about uniform mail delivery service. Circleville's Postmaster, Harry Payne, was not present because of an extended sick leave.

Individual complaints were brought up by local businessmen, and the reasons why such problems might occur were discussed. By the end of the session, it was evident that efforts are presently being made to upgrade the local postal service.

Horsley, who has been at the Circleville Post office for two weeks, read a list of priorities the local system will be striving for. He said these points are being worked on by all employees.

Hiring two carriers for rural routes was first on the list. The area has been in need of this for some time, and the post office is in the hiring process. It will also review city carrier routes, and make an effort to divide the business area among at least three carriers.

The post office will be obtaining routing stickers. This will be especially helpful for getting bulk mail to its destination quicker. Employees will instruct persons using the stickers as to the proper way, so mail can go through the distribution centers without being re-processed.

Post office officials will inform the press and radio regularly on changes in the system. Not only special occasions, such as Christmas delivery, but any changes that relate to the customers.

The stamp stock levels will be examined to see if they need to be adjusted. Also, the window help will be occasionally evaluated for prompt processing and dispatching of mail.

Finally, repairs on the building will be taken care of to conform with a recent building inspection.

Horsley told the group that the problems of long lines at the windows will be alleviated but within the restrictions and budgets placed on them.

Another goal of the post office is to have the box mail ready by 8 a.m. Pritchard added that this is his goal, but during heavy periods, such as the first of the month, it may not be possible.

Another point that Horsley cleared up is local mail. Any mail that is placed in a local drop box is canceled in Circleville. All other mail goes to Columbus to be sorted.

Horsley announced that Robert Provost will come to Circleville Monday to fill in during Payne's extended sick leave. He added that Provost is very dependable and will continue with the priorities listed by Horsley.

Because of the new numbering system for rural areas in the county, some questions arose as to the length of time given to the residence for changing to road numbers. Horsley noted that after the engineers give a list to the post office, the information is passed on to the customer. One year is given to the customer to give to correspondents. After that time, it is the post office's right to put wrong address in the dead letter file.

Another question came up about receiving a change of address from post office employees. Mailing addresses are under the protection of the Privacy Act. For this reason, a fee must be charged for the information because of the receipts and statements filed and the search that is made for the address change.

On Oct. 18, she was charged with forgery.

Jury trial for Clemons, who is charged with breaking and entering, vandalism, and two counts of petit theft, will be Jan. 6.

On Sept. 22, Clemons is charged with allegedly entering the premises of the Sperry New Holland Company, Route 23 South, with the intent to commit theft and unlawfully taking money and a clock radio. On the same date, he is charged with taking less than $150 cash from the Goodchild Inc. and causing serious physical harm to a Coca-Cola vending machine.

Lewis' jury trial has been scheduled Jan. 6.

He is charged with breaking and entering, vandalism and two counts of petit theft as an accomplice to Clemons.

Terry Lee Ratcliff, 23, Route 5, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory after he changed his plea to guilty on charges of breaking and entering and grand theft.

Judge Ammer imposed concurrent six month to five year terms on both charges.

Ratcliff was charged Sept. 28 with breaking into the Westfall High School and taking money and personal property from the building.

Keith Morris, 22, 703 Broadway St., Washington C.H., was ordered jailed and placed under continued probation after he admitted violating terms of earlier probation imposed by Judge Ammer.

Morris, charged with criminal damaging and grand theft stemming from the July 16 theft of a police radio from the car of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson, pleaded guilty on both charges and was given probation for three years.

However, Morris violated terms of the probation by committing another criminal act in Fayette County, possessing a marijuana cigarette, consuming intoxicating liquor, and leaving Fayette County without permission.

Judge Ammer ordered him jailed until he can be transferred to a drug treatment center in Columbus for a 90-day period of in-patient treatment.

Sherrel D. Battles, 40, 508 W. 2nd Street, Chillicothe, was given three years probation after pleading guilty to receiving stolen property.

Judge Ammer suspended a six month to five year term in the Ohio Penitentiary and ordered probation if Ms. Battles pays the $250 fine he imposed, and maintains receipts for all items over $15 other than food obtained while on probation.

She was charged July 30 with receiving personal property including a micro-wave oven, television set, sweeper, clothes, and light bulbs which had been taken from Buckeye Mart and knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that they had been stolen. All the items were recovered.

Mary E. Battles, 38, 508 W. 2nd Street, Chillicothe, who was arrested with Sherrel Battles and received an identical sentence, was also given probation for three years with the same terms.

A six month to five year jail term in the Mansfield Reformatory imposed Oct. 4 against Terry Francis Lambert, 22, 10937 Mattville Road, Orient, was suspended by Judge Ammer and Lambert was placed on probation for three years.

During that time, he must make restitution as to the cost of the drug, not have any narcotic drug without a prescription, and serve a 45-day jail term in the Pickaway County Jail.

Lambert was charged June 24 with selling marijuana.

A six month to five year term in the Mansfield Reformatory for Women imposed against Deborah J. Havens, 19, 11590 Poplar Street, Ashville, was suspended and she was placed on probation for three years.

Ms. Havens, charged May 25 with selling a narcotic drug, pleaded guilty Oct. 12.

During her probation, she must make restitution for the cost of the drug, not have or use any narcotic drug without a prescription, and serve a 45-day jail term in the Pickaway County Jail.

The state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Richard L. Gerhardt in all of the cases.

Knife-Point Robbery

A Frankfort man, threatened with a knife by three men early Thursday morning, was robbed of about $200 worth of merchandise including $6 cash.

Craig Clark, 18, Frankfort, was uninjured during the robbery, although he was bound with his shoestrings and left in the vehicle under threats of violence.

The incident, which occurred 4:20 a.m. Thursday in the southbound rest stop on Route 23, is being investigated by Ohio State Highway Patrol Trooper R.L. Daub.

Apparently, three men were involved in the robbery.

Clark, driving a grain truck, parked at the rest stop and was asleep in the cab when he was awakened by two of the men, who apparently entered the truck cab.

After asking directions to Columbus, one of the men threatened Clark with a knife.

Clark, under threats of harm, surrendered his cash, watch, ring, tools and tool box, coats, and keys. He was ordered to lie on the floor of the cab and was bound with shoestrings from his shoes.

The thieves, after ripping wires from under the dashboard of the vehicle, threatened Clark with a gun and ordered him to remain silent until they fled from the area.

Post Office Reps Discuss Local Problems

By ANDI PORTER
Herald Staff Writer

The Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce had a luncheon meeting with representatives from the Circleville post office and concerned business leaders to discuss local post office operations.

Larry Pritchard, acting supervisor of the Circleville office, and LaRue Horsley, Washington C.H. Postmaster, were present to hear complaints and discuss solutions about uniform mail delivery service. Circleville's Postmaster, Harry Payne, was not present because of an extended sick leave.

Individual complaints were brought up by local businessmen, and the reasons why such problems might occur were discussed. By the end of the session, it was evident that efforts are presently being made to upgrade the local postal service.

Horsley, who has been at the Circleville Post office for two weeks, read a list of priorities the local system will be striving for. He said these points are being worked on by all employees.

Hiring two carriers for rural routes was first on the list. The area has been in need of this for some time, and the post office is in the hiring process. It will also review city carrier routes, and make an effort to divide the business area among at least three carriers.

The post office will be obtaining routing stickers. This will be especially helpful for getting bulk mail to its destination quicker. Employees will instruct persons using the stickers as to the proper way, so mail can go through the distribution centers without being re-processed.

Post office officials will inform the press and radio regularly on changes in the system. Not only special occasions, such as Christmas delivery, but any changes that relate to the customers.

The stamp stock levels will be examined to see if they need to be adjusted. Also, the window help will be occasionally evaluated for prompt processing and dispatching of mail.

Finally, repairs on the building will be taken care of to conform with a recent building inspection.

Horsley told the group that the problems of long lines at the windows will be alleviated but within the restrictions and budgets placed on them.

Another goal of the post office is to have the box mail ready by 8 a.m. Pritchard added that this is his goal, but during heavy periods, such as the first of the month, it may not be possible.

Another point that Horsley cleared up is local mail. Any mail that is placed in a local drop box is canceled in Circleville. All other mail goes to Columbus to be sorted.

Horsley announced that Robert Provost will come to Circleville Monday to fill in during Payne's extended sick leave. He added that Provost is very dependable and will continue with the priorities listed by Horsley.

Because of the new numbering system for rural areas in the county, some questions arose as to the length of time given to the residence for changing to road numbers. Horsley noted that after the engineers give a list to the post office, the information is passed on to the customer. One year is given to the customer to give to correspondents. After that time, it is the post office's right to put wrong address in the dead letter file.

Another question came up about receiving a change of address from post office employees. Mailing addresses are under the protection of the Privacy Act. For this reason, a fee must be charged for the information because of the receipts and statements filed and the search that is made for the address change.
